Course programme General Studies The registration for the General Studies courses is open from 2nd of May 2024 via CampusNet. The registration deadline for the courses taking place in week 20 ends on 13th of May 2024, for all other courses one week before the course date or course start.

You can find more detailed information on registration in the FAQs. Please note the respective course language is B2 for all courses (English or German). From May 2nd, 2024 you can download an overview of the current courses for the summer semester 2024. course list Topics of our General Studies Business Topics/Management Skills Basic Digital Skills Employability Softskills/Communication Language courses Our awards Career Service Netzwerk As host of the 14th annual conference of the csnd in 2019, SRH University Heidelberg made an outstanding contribution to the development and professionalisation of career service work in Germany. To the Career Service Network! Our award pdf (310 KB) FAQs When can I register for the courses? Registration for the courses usually opens at the beginning of the semester. In the case of seminars and workshops published on the website on short notice, registration will be open immediately. Registration is possible at the latest one week before the course date. How do I register for the General Studies Courses? To register for our general studies courses, please follow these steps (remember: registration for our general studies courses is only possible via CampusNet): Log in to your CampusNet and go to 'My studies'. From the menu on the left, go to 'Register Language Courses and General Studies Courses'. From the list of modules and courses to register for, select 'Further Courses'. You will now see an overview of all current General Studies Courses (& Language Courses). Do I get (ECTS CP) European Credit Transfer System Credit Points for attending the course? For the language courses you will receive 1-2 (ECTS CP) after successfully passing the exam. The workload of each course is defined on the certificates and each faculty decides about the recognition of credits. Can the courses be recognized by my faculty on my transcript of grades? The recognition of the courses is a decision of the examination offices of the faculties. The exact recognition rules/information can be obtained directly from your faculty contact person. For example at the School of Economics, courses such as Entrepreneurship, Scientific Work, Keynote, Intercultural Communication, etc. may be recognized within the module "Applied Scientific Work" (Bachelor curriculum), at the Faculty of Therapeutic Sciences may recognize some courses as an elective. If you are a student of another faculty, please contact your examination office for recognition rules. What happens if I do not attend a course after registering? If you are skipping a course without having officially cancelled your registration, you will unfortunately be banned from the General Studies courses for the upcoming semester. In case of illness, you will of course be excused, just like in the case of an examination (please provide proof of illness). What do the courses cost? There are no fees for the courses. In exceptional cases, e.g. language courses, you will have to purchase learning material/books yourself. Who is my contact for a certificate of participation? Please contact: Studium-Generale.hshd@srh.de or Sandra.Reiland-Wilhelm@srh.de in order to receive your certificate. Until which date can I cancel my registration? A cancellation is possible at the latest one week before the first course date. Who can I contact to cancel a course? You can cancel your registration directly on CampusNet. If the course is already closed and cancellation is no longer possible, please send an e-mail with the reason for your cancellation to Studium-Generale.hshd@srh.de or Sandra.Reiland-Wilhelm@srh.de. How will I get my certificate of attendance for a course? A confirmation of the course participants will be given to us directly by the lecturers. Therefore, we do not need any proof from you. After you were present on all course dates, you will receive automatically a certificate from us via e-mail by the end of the corresponding block. This certificate can be used, for example in your job application. Will I receive a certificate automatically? Since the summer semester 2024, certificates have only been issued on request. After a successful completion of a course, please contact: Studium-Generale.hshd@srh.de Your contact We are happy to help you. Ass. iur. For the language courses you will receive 1-2 (ECTS CP) after successfully passing the exam. The workload of each course is defined on the certificates and each faculty decides about the recognition of credits. Can the courses be recognized by my faculty on my transcript of grades? The recognition of the courses is a decision of the examination offices of the faculties. The exact recognition rules/information can be obtained directly from your faculty contact person. For example at the School of Economics, courses such as Entrepreneurship, Scientific Work, Keynote, Intercultural Communication, etc. may be recognized within the module "Applied Scientific Work" (Bachelor curriculum), at the Faculty of Therapeutic Sciences may recognize some courses as an elective. If you are a student of another faculty, please contact your examination office for recognition rules. What happens if I do not attend a course after registering? If you are skipping a course without having officially cancelled your registration, you will unfortunately be banned from the General Studies courses for the upcoming semester. In case of illness, you will of course be excused, just like in the case of an examination (please provide proof of illness). What do the courses cost? There are no fees for the courses. In exceptional cases, e.g. language courses, you will have to purchase learning material/books yourself. Who is my contact for a certificate of participation? Please contact: Studium-Generale.hshd@srh.de or Sandra.Reiland-Wilhelm@srh.de in order to receive your certificate. Until which date can I cancel my registration? A cancellation is possible at the latest one week before the first course date. Who can I contact to cancel a course? You can cancel your registration directly on CampusNet. If the course is already closed and cancellation is no longer possible, please send an e-mail with the reason for your cancellation to Studium-Generale.hshd@srh.de or Sandra.Reiland-Wilhelm@srh.de. How will I get my certificate of attendance for a course? A confirmation of the course participants will be given to us directly by the lecturers. Therefore, we do not need any proof from you. After you were present on all course dates, you will receive automatically a certificate from us via e-mail by the end of the corresponding block. This certificate can be used, for example in your job application. Will I receive a certificate automatically? Since the summer semester 2024, certificates have only been issued on request. After a successful completion of a course, please contact: Studium-Generale.hshd@srh.de

Welcome to Germany! Why is Germany the perfect study location? In recent studies compiled by the OECD and study.eu Germany was deemed the no. 1 study destination for international students in Europe and the 3rd most attractive study destination among OECD countries. But what makes Germany the perfect study location? High quality tertiary education system German university degrees are highly respected by employers around the world Large amount of study programmes in English Moderate living costs Shortage of skilled professionals and low unemployment rate for university graduates Graduates from German universities are eligible to apply for an 18-month residence permit that allows them to find a job in Germany after their graduation Safe country with low crime rates After your studies Career & Visa Germany?s economy is the strongest in Europe and the fourth strongest in the world. The country is the European leader in terms of growth, employment and exports. There are enormous employment and career opportunities for skilled professionals. Germany?s youth unemployment rate and the unemployment rate for university graduates are both very low. What are my options after I finish my studies? After graduating with a Bachelor?s, Master's or MBA degree from a German university, students have several visa and residence options. Residence permit while looking for a job You can apply for an 18-month residence permit from your local foreign nationals registration office to look for a job that corresponds to your qualifications. During these 18 months, you may take up any kind of employment to support yourself and to fund your job search. You can apply for your residence permit as soon as you have passed your final exam. Residence permit for taking up employment As soon as you find a job offer which corresponds to your qualifications, you can apply for a German residence permit for the next part of your stay. Initially, a German residence permit that allows you to take up employment will be issued for a limited period of time. If you continue to be employed and wish to have your permit extended, you will be able to do so without any issue. EU Blue Card The EU Blue Card is a residence title for graduates which is intended to facilitate and promote the permanent immigration of highly-qualified persons from outside the EU to Germany. Find more information here Settlement permit As early as two years after receiving your German residence permit, you can apply for a settlement permit ? this permit will give you almost the same rights as German citizens and has no time limit. The only condition is that you are still employed in Germany at that point of time. Advice Advice Job prospects Germany has a shortage of skilled professionals in STEM and health-related occupations and an ageing population. Both factors increase the chances for young and skilled international university graduates to find suitable employment in Germany, start and continue their careers here. The occupations that are mostly affected by skills' shortages include graduate positions in the field of supply and waste management, IT and software development/programming, STEM disciplines (science, technology, engineering, mathematics), mechanical and automotive engineering, electrical engineering and medicine. Graduates from other disciplines and STEM graduates can always increase their career prospects by: Having a good command of the German language. We recommend that you enrol in German classes during your studies. Try to speak as much German as possible, e.g. with class or flatmates. Knowing the German labour market. Learn how a German CV and cover letter need to look like and what German employers are looking for. Things might work differently than in your home country. Getting professional experience through internships and student jobs. Graduates with more work experience enjoy better job opportunities. This way you can also expand your professional network. Getting started Plan your studies in Germany Living and studying in Germany Familiarise with German culture. Coming to Germany Prepare your trip and get started. Any questions? Advice Advice Job prospects Germany has a shortage of skilled professionals in STEM and health-related occupations and an ageing population. Both factors increase the chances for young and skilled international university graduates to find suitable employment in Germany, start and continue their careers here. The occupations that are mostly affected by skills' shortages include graduate positions in the field of supply and waste management, IT and software development/programming, STEM disciplines (science, technology, engineering, mathematics), mechanical and automotive engineering, electrical engineering and medicine. Graduates from other disciplines and STEM graduates can always increase their career prospects by: Having a good command of the German language. We recommend that you enrol in German classes during your studies. Try to speak as much German as possible, e.g. with class or flatmates. Knowing the German labour market. Learn how a German CV and cover letter need to look like and what German employers are looking for. Things might work differently than in your home country. Getting professional experience through internships and student jobs. Graduates with more work experience enjoy better job opportunities. This way you can also expand your professional network.

School of Applied Psychology Understanding human behaviour Explaining human behaviour and applying psychological findings to practice and research: this is what drives us as a School.
Innovative and practice-relevant Master's programmes in the areas of business psychology, health psychology, sport psychology, neuropsychology and legal psychology, complemented by an undergraduate Bachelor's programme, cover a wide spectrum of Applied Psychology in a future-oriented way. Our philosophy Our philosophy What makes your studies at our faculty so special The School of Applied Psychology at SRH University Heidelberg is distinguished by its wide range of experts who bring together their expertise in the key areas of psychology. From traditional basic fields to areas of specialisation, we offer you a wide range of options to help shape your future-oriented education: whichever area of study you choose, you'll find the perfect professionally distinct yet well-established position after graduating. Psychology is a key science of the 21st century. A fundamental and solid education at our School opens up a wide range of career opportunities in research and practice. Dipl.-Psych. Willi Neuthinger ? Psychology B.Sc. Coming to Germany and getting started Have you received your final letter of admission? Then it's time to plan your studies at SRH University Heidelberg. VISA How to get your student visa Obtaining a visa is one of the most important first steps for prospective students from abroad. Whether you need a visa or not depends on which country you come from. Please note that the visa process can be long, so make sure you start the application process as soon as possible. Do I need a visa? If you wish to stay longer than 90 days in Germany, you can obtain a visa after you arrive as citizen of one of the following countries: Andorra, Australia, Canada, Honduras, Israel, Japan, Monaco, New Zealand, San Marino, South Korea, and the United States of America. All other foreign nationals wishing to stay longer than 90 days must apply for an entry visa in their home country before they come to Germany If you are a citizen of the EU, Iceland, Lichtenstein, Norway or Switzerland, you do not need a visa. You only need a valid personal ID card or passport. Please contact the German Embassy in your home country to find out whether you need a visa to enter Germany. Detailed information about visa for Germany can be found on the DAAD websites ?study in Germany?.

Indian Students can find relevant information here. How long does it take to get my visa? The entire visa procedure can take eight to twelve weeks, especially for autumn admissions. So ideally, you should submit your visa application to the German embassy or consulate in your country as soon as you have the letter of acceptance from SRH University Heidelberg. What type of visa do I have to apply for? There are several types of visas, so be sure to apply for a student visa, and under no circumstances come to Germany on a tourist visa. You cannot study in Germany on a tourist visa, and a tourist visa cannot be converted into a student visa. Student visas are usually issued for a three-month period. After you have arrived in Heidelberg and enrolled at SRH University Heidelberg, you will have to apply for a long-term residence permit at the Registration Office for Foreigners in your place of residence (Heidelberg, Mannheim, Eppelheim, Schriesheim, etc.). What documents do I need? As a rule, you will be asked to present:

- Proof of financial resources. Currently, international students must prove they have at least ? 11,904 per year at their disposal (? 992 per month). Proof of financial resources can be provided in various ways. In some cases, the German embassy or consulate may require a specific amount to be paid into a blocked access bank account to ensure financial security for the initial period of the applicant's stay in Germany.
- Certificate confirming health insurance
- Certificate of past academic work and achievements ? make sure that you write a convincing motivation letter, why your study at SRH University Heidelberg is important for your career.
- Certificate of German language proficiency (Exception: international programmes taught in English)
- Notification of admission from SRH University Heidelberg (?Final letter?)

What is a blocked bank account? If you are an international student coming from a non-EU country, you will have to provide evidence that you have sufficient financial resources to cover your living expenses in Germany for one year. This evidence is an important condition of getting your student visa and your residence permit. International students must open a blocked account, which is a special type of account. You can choose where you want to open the blocked account. From 1 January 2025, the assumed annual standard requirement that must be paid into the blocked account when applying for a visa will be 11,904 euros. Students will then be allowed to withdraw up to 992 euros per month..

Health insurance

Health insurance

Make sure to take care of your health insurance

As a student in Germany, you are required to have health insurance. Without proof of coverage, no German university will be able to enrol you. Please check to see which of the following situations apply to you:

- You are a resident of an EU country or of Iceland, Liechtenstein, Norway, Switzerland or Macedonia, and are insured at home. In this case, your medical insurance probably covers your stay in Germany. Germany has signed social insurance agreements with these countries to ensure cross-border coverage. With your European Health Insurance Card (EHIC), you are also insured in Germany. Please check with your insurance provider to be sure. You will need to send your policy to a German public company for them to check it and give you an exception letter. You are a citizen of a non-EU country and you are insured in your home country, but not covered for travel abroad. In this case, you must buy insurance from one of the statutory medical insurance companies in Germany (e.g. AOK, BEK, BKK, DAK, IKK, KKH, TK). Doctors charge the insurer directly for any medical treatment you receive. Insurance for students currently costs about ?110 per month. Although all statutory insurance policies cost the same, it is worthwhile to compare services and payment options offered by the various insurers. You are a citizen of a non-EU country, and you have sufficient medical coverage in your home country for international travel or study. If so, you may be exempt from obligatory student insurance. Be sure to bring your proof of insurance with you.

Planning your arrival

Traveling from Frankfurt Airport to Heidelberg

If you plan to fly to Germany, Frankfurt Airport is usually the best choice. There is a very good train connection to Heidelberg (about 80 kilometres south of Frankfurt), or you may want to use private shuttle services.

Arrival by train: Frankfurt Airport Station to Heidelberg Central Station.

Tickets are available at automatic ticket machines in the station or online at bahn.de. The price is approx. ? 25 one-way.

Arrival by shuttle service to Heidelberg city centre:

You should book your seat in advance, and be prepared to pay the fare in cash.

Arrival by shuttle service door to door:

This option must be booked 48 hours in advance, and again, be prepared to pay the fare in cash.

Arrival by Flixbus:

This must be booked in advance as there are limited buses.

On campus

Getting started in Heidelberg

Living and studying in a foreign country and discovering an unknown culture may be a challenge at first. But you will overcome the culture shock: learn some German, try German bread, go to some traditional festivities, and travel to get to know your new home! The International Office will organise a Mandatory Orientation Session during your first week, providing you with some social and cultural advice and connecting you with other SRH students. And we will be there to assist you with formalities or any problems you may encounter.

1. Enrolling at Student Services

To digitally enrol

before you arrive on campus, you need to send your documents to Student Services (info.hshd@srh.de). However, you have to show up in person in order to complete the final enrolment process at SRH Heidelberg UAS. Please bring the following documents with you: Your admission notification; Originals of: your secondary school leaving certificate, and university diploma or degree certificate (if applicable); Your passport with a visa or a confirmation of your visa appointment for digital enrolment. One day after enrolling, your student ID card can be issued at Maria-Probst-Strasse 3 (ground floor). Your student ID is a multi-functional chip card that serves as academic identification and is needed for photocopying, the parking garage, and the canteen.

2. Get your Semester Ticket to use public transport Heidelberg has an excellent local public transport system that students can use inexpensively (? 180) thanks to the Semesterticket. It is valid for six months, and you can buy it at Maria-Probst-Strasse 3 or at the central train station as soon as you have your student ID.

3. Go to the Residents' Registration Office (Bürgerbüro) In Germany, all residents and visitors staying for longer than three months must register with the city government. Once you have found housing, you have to inform the Residents' Registration Office in your city or town within one week. Students who live on campus have to go to the Residents' Registration Office in Heidelberg-Wieblingen, Mannheimer Strasse 259, and fill in a registration form (Anmeldebescheinigung). All other students have to go to their local Registration Office. Please ask your landlord where it is. You will need the following documents to register: your passport (and visa) and your tenancy agreement, with a statement from your landlord confirming that you have moved in. Please note: Anyone who lives in Germany and moves to a new location is required to inform the Residents' Registration Office of their new place of residence within two weeks of moving in.

in your city to apply for a residence permit. For Heidelberg, the Registration Office for Foreigners is located at Bergheimer Strasse 69 (Bürgeramt). The email address is: buergeramt@heidelberg.de. You will have to make an appointment for your application. Be prepared to present the following documents on request: Confirmation of registration from the Residents' Registration Office Confirmation of health insurance coverage Confirmation of enrolment from SRH University Heidelberg Proof of financial resources Your passport and current visa, if you have one Money for the residence permit fee Your tenancy agreement Biometric passport photos (35 mm x 45 mm) You will then be issued a residence permit valid for at least one year and a maximum of two years. It can be extended if necessary. Be sure to submit your application for your residence permit before your current visa/residence permit expires, even if you have not yet collected all the necessary documents. In this case, you will receive a provisional proof of application for the residence permit.

5. Open a Bank Account In Germany, almost every regular money transaction is done by bank transfer. This applies to recurring monthly expenses such as rent and insurance, as well as income such as salaries and grant or scholarship payments. If you present your enrolment certificate, most banks will be willing to open a student account for you. Some banks may request a copy of your residence registration or your tenancy agreement. Each bank offers different terms, although students are usually offered a current account free of bank charges and fees. The largest banks in Germany are Deutsche Bank, Sparkasse, Commerzbank, and Postbank. What else? You might also be interested in Applications and admissions Find your new home Any questions? VISA How to get your student visa country you come from. Please note that the visa process can be long, so make sure you start the application process as soon as possible. Do I need a visa? If you wish to stay longer than 90 days in Germany, you can obtain a visa after you arrive as citizen of one of the following countries: Andorra, Australia, Canada, Honduras, Israel, Japan, Monaco, New Zealand, San Marino, South Korea, and the United States of America. All other foreign nationals wishing to stay longer than 90 days must apply for an entry visa in their home country before they come to Germany. If you are a citizen of the EU, Iceland, Lichtenstein, Norway or Switzerland, you do not need a visa. You only need a valid personal ID card or passport. Please contact the German Embassy in your home country to find out whether you need a visa to enter Germany. Detailed information about visa for Germany can be found on the DAAD websites ?study in Germany?. Indian Students can find relevant information here. How long does it take to get my visa? The entire visa procedure can take eight to twelve weeks, especially for autumn admissions. So ideally, you should submit your visa application to the German embassy or consulate in your country as soon as you have the letter of acceptance from SRH University Heidelberg. What type of visa do I have to apply for? There are several types of visas, so be sure to apply for a student visa, and under no circumstances come to Germany on a tourist visa. You cannot study in Germany on a tourist visa, and a tourist visa cannot be converted into a student visa. Student visas are usually issued for a three-month period. After you have arrived in Heidelberg and enrolled at SRH University Heidelberg, you will have to apply for a long-term residence permit at the Registration Office for Foreigners in your place of residence (Heidelberg, Mannheim, Eppelheim, Schriesheim, etc.). What documents do I need? As a rule, you will be asked to present:

Obtaining a visa is one of the most important first steps for prospective students from abroad. Whether you need a visa or not depends on which

- Proof of financial resources. Currently, international students must prove they have at least ? 11,904 per year at their disposal (? 992 per month). Proof of financial resources can be provided in various ways. In some cases, the German embassy or consulate may require a specific amount to be paid into a blocked access bank account to ensure financial security for the initial period of the applicant's stay in Germany.
- Certificate confirming health insurance
- Certificate of past academic work and achievements ? make sure that you write a convincing motivation letter, why your study at SRH University Heidelberg is important for your career.
- Certificate of German language proficiency (Exception: international programmes taught in English) Notification of admission from SRH University Heidelberg (?Final letter?)

What is a blocked bank account? If you are an international student coming from a non-EU country, you will have to provide evidence that you have sufficient financial resources to cover your living expenses in Germany for one year. This evidence is an important condition of getting your student visa and your residence permit. International students must open a blocked account, which is a special type of account. You can choose where you want to open the blocked account. Health insurance

Health insurance Make sure to take care of your health insurance As a student in Germany, you are required to have health insurance. Without proof of coverage, no German university will be able to enrol you. Please check to see which of the following situations apply to you:

You are a resident of an EU country or of Iceland, Liechtenstein, Norway, Switzerland or Macedonia, and are insured at home. In this case, your medical insurance probably covers your stay in Germany. Germany has signed social insurance agreements with these countries to ensure cross-border coverage. With your European Health Insurance Card (EHIC), you are also insured in Germany. Please check with your insurance provider to be sure. You will need to send your policy to a German public company for them to check it and give you an exception letter.

You are a citizen of a non-EU country and you are insured in your home country, but not covered for travel abroad. In this case, you must buy insurance from one of the statutory medical insurance companies in Germany (e.g. AOK, BEK, BKK, DAK, IKK, KKH, TK). Doctors charge the insurer directly for any medical treatment you receive. Insurance for students currently costs about ?110 per month. Although all statutory insurance policies cost the same, it is worthwhile to compare services and payment options offered by the various insurers.

You are a citizen of a non-EU country, and you have sufficient medical coverage in your home country for international travel or study. If so, you may be exempt from obligatory student insurance. Be sure to bring your proof of insurance with you.

On campus Getting started in Heidelberg Living and studying in a foreign country and discovering an unknown culture may be a challenge at first. But you will overcome the culture shock: learn some German, try German bread, go to some traditional festivities, and travel to get to know your new home! The International Office will organise a Mandatory Orientation Session during your first week, providing you with some social and cultural advice and connecting you with other SRH students. And we will be there to assist you with formalities or any problems you may encounter. 1. Enrolling at Student Services To digitally enrol before you arrive on campus, you need to send your documents to Student Services (info.hshd@srh.de). However, you have to show up in person in order to complete the final enrolment process at SRH Heidelberg UAS. Please bring the following documents with you: Your admission notification; Originals of: your secondary school leaving certificate, and university diploma or degree certificate (if applicable); Your passport with a visa or a confirmation of your visa appointment for digital enrolment. One day after enrolling, your student ID card can be issued at Maria-Probst-Strasse 3 (ground floor). Your student ID is a multi-functional chip card that serves as academic identification and is needed for photocopying, the parking garage, and the canteen.

2. Get your Semester Ticket to use public transport Heidelberg has an excellent local public transport system that students can use inexpensively (? 180) thanks to the Semesterticket. It is valid for six months, and you can buy it at Maria-Probst-Strasse 3 or at the central train station as soon as you have your student ID.

3. Go to the Residents' Registration Office (Bürgerbüro) In Germany, all residents and visitors staying for longer than three months must register with the city government. Once you have found housing, you have to inform the Residents' Registration Office in your city or town within one week. Students who live on campus have to go to the Residents' Registration Office in Heidelberg-Wieblingen, Mannheimer Strasse 259, and fill in a registration form (Anmeldebescheinigung). All other students have to go to their local Registration Office. Please ask your landlord where it is. You will need the following documents to register: your passport (and visa) and your tenancy agreement, with a statement from your landlord confirming that you have moved in. Please note: Anyone who lives in Germany and moves to a new location is required to inform the Residents' Registration Office of their new place of residence within two weeks of moving in.

in your city to apply for a residence permit. For Heidelberg, the Registration Office for Foreigners is located at Bergheimer Strasse 69 (Bürgeramt). The email address is: buergeramt@heidelberg.de. You will have to make an appointment for your application. Be prepared to present the following documents on request: Confirmation of registration from the Residents' Registration Office Confirmation of health insurance coverage Confirmation of enrolment from SRH University Heidelberg Proof of financial resources Your passport and current visa, if you have one Money for the residence permit fee Your tenancy agreement Biometric passport photos (35 mm x 45 mm) You will then be issued a residence permit valid for at least one year and a maximum of two years. It can be extended if necessary. Be sure to submit your application for your residence permit before your current visa/residence permit expires, even if you have not yet collected all the necessary documents. In this case, you will receive a provisional proof of application for the residence permit.

5. Open a Bank Account In Germany, almost every regular money transaction is done by bank transfer. This applies to recurring monthly expenses such as rent and insurance, as well as income such as salaries and grant or scholarship payments. If you present your enrolment certificate, most banks will be willing to open a student account for you. Some banks may request a copy of your residence registration or your tenancy agreement. Each bank offers different terms, although students are usually offered a current account free of bank charges and fees. The largest banks in Germany are Deutsche Bank, Sparkasse, Commerzbank, and Postbank. documents. In this case, you will receive a provisional proof of application for the residence permit. The formalities involved in obtaining a residence permit (from the Ausländerbehörde) depend on which country you come from. For students from an EU member state, Iceland, Liechtenstein, Norway, or Switzerland: You will receive a certificate confirming your right of residence when you register at the Residents? Registration Office. For students from a country other than those listed above: After you have registered at the Residents? Registration Office, you will have to go to the Registration Office for Foreigners (Ausländerbehörde) in your city to apply for a residence permit. For Heidelberg, the Registration Office for Foreigners is located at Bergheimer Strasse 69 (Bürgeramt). The email address is: buergeramt@heidelberg.de. You will have to make an appointment for your application. Be prepared to present the following documents on request:

- Confirmation of registration from the Residents? Registration Office
- Confirmation of health insurance coverage
- Confirmation of enrolment from SRH University Heidelberg
- Proof of financial resources
- Your passport and current visa, if you have one
- Money for the residence permit fee
- Your tenancy agreement
- Biometric passport photos (35 mm x 45 mm)

You will then be issued a residence permit valid for at least one year and a maximum of two years. It can be extended if necessary. Be sure to submit your application for your residence permit before your current visa/residence permit expires, even if you have not yet collected all the necessary documents. 5. Open a Bank Account In Germany, almost every regular money transaction is done by bank transfer. This applies to recurring monthly expenses such as rent and insurance, as well as income such as salaries and grant or scholarship payments. If you present your enrolment certificate, most banks will be willing to open a student account for you. Some banks may request a copy of your residence registration or your tenancy agreement. Each bank offers different terms, although students are usually offered a current account free of bank charges and fees. The largest banks in Germany are Deutsche Bank, Sparkasse, Commerzbank, and Postbank. In Germany, almost every regular money transaction is done by bank transfer. Financing your studies Can I afford to study at a private university? We are one of the oldest private universities in Germany and we believe in the principle of independent teaching and research. This independence is demonstrated in our many years of experience in university education, referrals from successful alumni, and our award-winning CORE Principle. However, since we know that it is difficult for many people to take on tuition fees, we also feel it is important to be there to support you.

Student financing Student financing What options do I have? We have a wide range of scholarship programmes open to all our students that provide numerous forms of assistance. Moreover, you always have the option of applying for external scholarships. We have also included all the other usual options for financing studies on this page. And obviously, you can contact our study advisors are your companions At our University, you take centre stage We'll overcome the challenges that getting a degree brings, with you ? together. So that you can study flexibly and independently ? but never alone. Our vision Our vision We teach and learn with passion. Close your eyes and imagine that you're a part of a team with passion for learning and teaching, and a common vision. Imagine a university that makes it possible to develop your own strengths, blaze new trails, and shape your own future ? that's us! Here, students and lecturers discover optimal teaching and learning conditions. We'll join you personally on your path to successful career and personal development.

Here, ?active learning? and ?skills orientation? are more than simply buzzwords. We are internationally engaged and we embrace interculturalism. We bring together application-oriented research and learning. Our graduates are valued by employers; our staff are sought out as experts in their fields. Here, you can enjoy studying and working. Because passion drives our teaching and learning. What you can expect from us Our promise to you As one of Germany's oldest and largest private universities, we set the standards in education. We impart practice-oriented knowledge that truly helps you get ahead. In the process, we attach particular importance to establishing close cooperation between our students and teaching staff. Your educational path: we are a reliable partner at your side Here, you won't find yourself on hold with an anonymous call centre or standing around alone after you've signed the study contract. We offer comprehensive personal counselling and support. Whether you have questions about financing or organising your studies, or arranging study abroad, our staff from Central Student Services are always there for you. Your professors and lecturers are available at all times, thanks to our open-door policy. You'll benefit from countless mentoring and coaching programmes, which help you get the most out of your education. As a result, 90% of our students graduate within the standard period of study for their programme (compared to about 60% at public universities). Our services

Your learning environment: our campus makes it easy to get from one place to another. It's not only important how you study, but also where you study. Our campus in Heidelberg, accessible for people with disabilities, is a place to learn, live and develop. You'll find an environment designed to make you feel at home, while motivating you to work hard. Our classrooms are equipped with state-of-the-art technology and tailored to the needs of our students. In addition to the on-campus library, there's a canteen and a fitness studio. Discover our campus

Your skills: with us, learning is an active and independent process. We want you to achieve your goals. That's why we provide you with precisely the skills and capabilities you need to take your next steps. We employ our proven CORE Principle to structure all study goals and exam formats, as well as learning and teaching methods, to make studying enjoyable and help you achieve the best possible outcome in your studies. You study in five-week blocks, directing your attention to a maximum of two subjects per block. Our professors and lecturers see themselves as 'learning coaches,' supporting you wherever and whenever you need it. That is their passion. Get to know the CORE Principle

Your future: preparing you is our goal. Motivation requires an eye to the future. That is what you'll get from our high-quality, internationally recognised degree programmes, which offer excellent opportunities for the future. You'll not find any flash-in-the-pan trends here – we prefer to look further ahead. Your curricula are tailored to the requirements of your future profession. We prepare you for your future career, by combining research and teaching into a well-balanced mix of theory and practice. That way, you can quickly adjust to working life. That further increases your appeal to future employers. In an increasingly globalised world, our international outlook provides outstanding opportunities on the labour market. Our offers for a successful start into the job

Your requirements: here, quality pays off, and you can rely on that. Are your standards high? Ours are too. As one of Germany's oldest and largest private universities, we are state-recognised and system-accredited. With our decades of experience, we are continuously expanding and refining the programmes we offer ? and updating them to reflect the ever-changing requirements and demands of the real world. Our degree programmes are highly ranked. A degree from SRH University Heidelberg reflects the highest standards ? both in Germany and abroad. Our professors and lecturers perform at the highest level. And our study model has received the Genius Loci Award for Excellence in Teaching by Stifterverband, a joint initiative started by companies and foundations. Open-minded university

Our mission statement We see ourselves as an interdisciplinary, scientific and cosmopolitan educational institution. In achieving our academic goals, our actions are driven by guiding principles.

Neutrality and tolerance We ensure the party-political, religious and ideological neutrality of our universities as well as their independence from the economic interests of third parties. We warmly welcome all students and staff, regardless of their ethnic and social background or gender. We believe it is important for our students and staff to have intercultural experiences and skills.

More information

Independence in social interaction Every person is a unique individual, yet at the same time a social being. We therefore encourage our students and staff to be independent thinkers and actors who, with a confidence in their own abilities and in partnership with others, actively help shape our society. In the process, we respond to the expectations and demands of our students and staff; their perspective is important to us.

Freedom with responsibility We consider personal freedom and the freedom of others to be a great good that needs to be protected. Creativity and innovation can only flourish where individuals are able to develop their potential freely. Within our culture of learning and teaching, students consequently adopt and develop their own attitudes, ideas and solutions to problems. As free and responsible individuals, students and staff take responsibility for their attitudes and actions.

Emphasis on learning rather than teaching

Our students and their personal development take centre stage at our university. In our face-to-face classes and distance learning, we therefore use the findings of education science on sustainable learning, which have been consolidated in our CORE Principle. The CORE Principle focuses on student centeredness and active learning, and on a learning and exam concept oriented consistently to the relevant competence objectives. Learning content is addressed in thematically coherent contexts. Application-oriented research is just as much an integral part of this as the use of digital media and the continuous professional development of our staff. Together with students, staff and external partners, we create an environment for innovative and sustainable learning. Science for practice Thanks to competence-oriented learning and application-oriented research, our students are supported and challenged in such a way that they are able to develop their own profile, giving them outstanding opportunities on the labour market when they graduate. At the same time, we maintain our national and international networks, and get external partners and students involved in our research, product development and practical projects. Entrepreneurial leadership in association Our universities can then best live the above-mentioned values and rely on requirements of a constantly changing environment in a flexible, fast and optimal manner if they are managed in an entrepreneurial way. This requires strong leaders who are willing to take responsibility for the company and who can live up to taking over. In doing so, our managers pay attention to the SRH principles of good corporate governance. We are convinced that cooperation within the association will enable us to work together "better grow" and our joint network will open up perspectives that go beyond the possibilities of the individual universities. Diversity We embrace diversity! We see diversity ? in our team and among our students ? as potential. More information Management President's Office The President?s Office is responsible for managing the university. It represents SRH University Heidelberg to the outside world, and coordinates cooperation among its members internally. Open-minded university

Our mission statement

We see ourselves as an interdisciplinary, scientific and cosmopolitan educational institution. In achieving our academic goals, our actions are driven by guiding principles.

Neutrality and tolerance

We ensure the party-political, religious and ideological neutrality of our universities as well as their independence from the economic interests of third parties. We warmly welcome all students and staff, regardless of their ethnic and social background or gender. We believe it is important for our students and staff to have intercultural experiences and skills.

More information

Independence in social interaction

Every person is a unique individual, yet at the same time a social being. We therefore encourage our students and staff to be independent thinkers and actors who, with a confidence in their own abilities and in partnership with others, actively help shape our society. In the process, we respond to the expectations and demands of our students and staff; their perspective is important to us.

Freedom with responsibility

We consider personal freedom and the freedom of others to be a great good that needs to be protected. Creativity and innovation can only flourish where individuals are able to develop their potential freely. Within our culture of learning and teaching, students consequently adopt and develop their own attitudes, ideas and solutions to problems. As free and responsible individuals, students and staff take responsibility for their attitudes and actions. Emphasis on learning rather than teaching Our students and their personal development take centre stage at our university. In our face-to-face classes and distance learning, we therefore use the findings of education science on sustainable learning, which have been consolidated in our CORE Principle. The CORE Principle focuses on student centeredness and active learning, and on a learning and exam concept oriented consistently to the relevant competence objectives. Learning content is addressed in thematically coherent contexts. Application-oriented research is just as much an integral part of this as the use of digital media and the continuous professional development of our staff. Together with students, staff and external partners, we create an environment for innovative and sustainable learning. Science for practice Thanks to competence-oriented learning and application-oriented research, our students are supported and challenged in such a way that they are able to develop their own profile, giving them outstanding opportunities on the labour market when they graduate. At the same time, we maintain our national and international networks, and get external partners and students involved in our research, product development and practical projects. Entrepreneurial leadership in association Our universities can then best live the above-mentioned values and rely on requirements of a constantly changing environment in a flexible, fast and optimal manner if they are managed in an entrepreneurial way. This requires strong leaders who are willing to take responsibility for the company and who can live up to taking over. In doing so, our managers pay attention to the SRH principles of good corporate governance. We are convinced that cooperation within the association will enable us to work together "better grow" and our joint network will open up perspectives that go beyond the possibilities of the individual universities. We consider personal freedom and the freedom of others to be a great good that needs to be protected. Creativity and innovation can only flourish where individuals are able to develop their potential freely. Within our culture of learning and teaching, students consequently adopt and develop their own attitudes, ideas and solutions to problems. As free and responsible individuals, students and staff take responsibility for their attitudes and actions. Emphasis on learning rather than teaching

Our students and their personal development take centre stage at our university. In our face-to-face classes and distance learning, we therefore use the findings of education science on sustainable learning, which have been consolidated in our CORE Principle. The CORE Principle focuses on student centeredness and active learning, and on a learning and exam concept oriented consistently to the relevant competence objectives. Learning content is addressed in thematically coherent contexts. Application-oriented research is just as much an integral part of this as the use of digital media and the continuous professional development of our staff. Together with students, staff and external partners, we create an environment for innovative and sustainable learning. Our students and their personal development take centre stage at our university. Thanks to competence-oriented learning and application-oriented research, our students are supported and challenged in such a way that they are able to develop their own profile, giving them outstanding opportunities on the labour market when they graduate. At the same time, we maintain our national and international networks, and get external partners and students involved in our research, product development and practical projects. Entrepreneurial leadership in association Our universities can then best live the above-mentioned values and rely on requirements of a constantly changing environment in a flexible, fast and optimal manner if they are managed in an entrepreneurial way. This requires strong leaders who are willing to take responsibility for the company and who can live up to taking over. In doing so, our managers pay attention to the SRH principles of good corporate governance. We are convinced that cooperation within the association will enable us to work together "better grow" and our joint network will open up perspectives that go beyond the possibilities of the individual universities. overview Conferences Water in transition: opportunities and challenges for the use of artificial intelligence 09.10. - 11.10.2024 Tagungszentrum Xplanatorium Schloss Herrenhausen, Hannover

The "Water in Transition" symposium, led by Prof. Dr. Ulrike Gayh, will focus on the effects of extreme weather events on water quality. With innovative solutions using artificial intelligence.

Calendar entry In the course of climate change, extreme weather and extreme water events such as storm surges, floods and droughts are steadily increasing and are also affecting Germany to an ever greater extent. The "Water in Transition" symposium, chaired by Prof. Dr. Ulrike Gayh, SRH University of Applied Sciences Heidelberg, will address the (negative) effects of such extreme weather events on water quality in streams, rivers and lakes and discuss innovative solutions using artificial intelligence. The focus is not only on current research and developments, but also on the transfer of knowledge and expertise to young scientists and prospective specialists, particularly in the field of water technology/data science. The symposium programme consists of interactive event formats and, in addition to lectures, also uses workshops and a hackathon to promote creative, interdisciplinary collaboration. The involvement of international participants emphasises the global relevance of the topic and enables diverse perspectives and discussions. The aim of the symposium is an interdisciplinary exchange between research, practice and civil society on the management of water extremes, as well as on the potential for improvement in the higher education of specialists and young researchers. The symposium offers a platform for impulses and networking opportunities to jointly develop sustainable solutions for water-related conflicts and to make higher education fit for the future. "The symposium "Water in Transition" is funded by the Volkswagen Foundation and is part of the Volkswagen Foundation theme week "Water between the Extremes"." Please contact us in advance if you are interested in taking part! Welche Voraussetzungen solltest Du mitbringen: Interested expertise in the field of: AI/water technology/engineering sciences Ongoing research in the field of data science/water technology/climate change This event is also aimed at doctoral candidates/ PhD students Prof. Dr.-Ing. Global Citizens 07.10. - 11.10.2024 SRH University Heidelberg, Ludwig-Guttmann-Strasse 6, 69123 Heidelberg

For our 14th SRH International Week we are excited to welcome our partners, and their students, back on Campus Heidelberg. Save the date and join us from 7th ? 11th October 2024!

Calendar entry International Week 2024: Future Skills for Global Citizens

Over the past 13 years, the SRH International Week has become a yearly meeting of colleagues turned collaborators turned friends and family. Mentors have brought their mentees to Heidelberg, the network has grown, connections became tighter, and even the Pandemic could not stop the collective efforts to stay in contact. You're invited to our International Week at SRH Heidelberg, this year focusing on "Future Skills for Global Citizens"! Join us for a series of engaging lectures, workshops, and a keynote speech exploring the essential skills needed in today's interconnected world. From AI to critical thinking to cultural competence, we'll delve into topics vital for success in a globalized society. Experience an International Tasting showcasing diverse cuisines, visit local companies to gain insights into global industries, partake in social activities fostering global networking opportunities and this year's special: join us on a boat cruise along the Neckar through picturesque Heidelberg! Don't miss this enriching opportunity to broaden your horizons and prepare for the future. What to expect from this International Week 2024?

Monday 9 AM: starts with an Opening Ceremony, a keynote speech, some musical and dance performances, followed by a kick-off session in your chosen course. Later, university presentations (max 3 minutes per partner university) will be presented by each student group and the day will close with a wonderful international tasting, with delights brought from your home country.

Daily 9 AM: students participate in one of the 16 courses, each with 20 contact hours. Each syllabus contains 4 questions which have to be prepared before arrival.

Tuesday 2 PM: after students are done with their courses in the morning, we will hop on a boat and cruise along the Neckar river through Heidelberg! One of our special highlights this year!

Wednesday 2 PM: students have the opportunity to visit a global company in the Rhein-Neckar-Area.

Thursday 2 PM: is planned for city tours and exciting hikes!

Friday morning: there will be a final assessment in your course and a farewell ?Sekt and Soup? before we say goodbye.

Participating students will get a certificate which they can use in their C.V. to apply for internships and jobs, as it shows your international mindset. For SRH Students: Your participation at the International Week 2024 can be certified by the Career Development Center/ General studies and credits might be recognized towards your degree. Check with your faculty. The participation fee for the International Week 2024 is 120?. Students from our partner universities receive a 30% discount (so the fee is 84 ? and includes lunches and public transport ticket). SRH Students receive a 65% discount (so the fee is 42 ?). While registering, please indicate the discount code you received from your university coordinator. International Week 2024: Future Skills for Global Citizens

Over the past 13 years, the SRH International Week has become a yearly meeting of colleagues turned collaborators turned friends and family. Mentors have brought their mentees to Heidelberg, the network has grown, connections became tighter, and even the Pandemic could not stop the collective efforts to stay in contact. You're invited to our International Week at SRH Heidelberg, this year focusing on "Future Skills for Global Citizens"! Join us for a series of engaging lectures, workshops, and a keynote speech exploring the essential skills needed in today's interconnected world. From AI to critical thinking to cultural competence, we'll delve into topics vital for success in a globalized society. Experience an International Tasting showcasing diverse cuisines, visit local companies to gain insights into global industries, partake in social activities fostering global networking opportunities and this year's special: join us on a boat cruise along the Neckar through picturesque Heidelberg! Don't miss this enriching opportunity to broaden your horizons and prepare for the future. What to expect from this International Week 2024?

Monday 9 AM: starts with an Opening Ceremony, a keynote speech, some musical and dance performances, followed by a kick-off session in your chosen course. Later, university presentations (max 3 minutes per partner university) will be presented by each student group and the day will close with a wonderful international tasting, with delights brought from your home country.

Daily 9 AM: students participate in one of the 16 courses, each with 20 contact hours. Each syllabus contains 4 questions which have to be prepared before arrival.

Tuesday 2 PM: after students are done with their courses in the morning, we will hop on a boat and cruise along the Neckar river through Heidelberg! One of our special highlights this year!

Wednesday 2 PM: students have the opportunity to visit a global company in the Rhein-Neckar-Area.

Thursday 2 PM: is planned for city tours and exciting hikes!

Friday morning: there will be a final assessment in your course and a farewell "Sekt and Soup" before we say goodbye. Participating students will get a certificate which they can use in their C.V. to apply for internships and jobs, as it shows your international mindset.

For SRH Students: Your participation at the International Week 2024 can be certified by the Career Development Center/ General studies and credits might be recognized towards your degree. At SRH University Heidelberg, you and your skills are the main focus. Which is why our programmes are not subject to restricted entry (NC). Instead, our applicants are selected on an individual basis. To make the application process easier for you, we described the main steps below. If you have any questions, feel free to contact our study advisors. Our Admission Office team is there to help you at all times. 7 steps away from your chosen degree programme The first step is to set up a personal non-binding account on the SRH Applicant Portal. You then apply for your chosen degree programme and upload all the relevant documents (including your higher education entrance qualification, your CV and your cover letter). Once we receive your application, we'll send you a confirmation email. We now check to see whether your application meets the formal requirements. If you meet the admission requirements, we'll invite you to an interview to get to know you personally. You'll have a personal discussion with us. In some degree programmes, you may also be asked to complete a few exercises or take an admissions test. The interview usually takes place on campus, giving you the opportunity to familiarise yourself with our facilities. However, we can also conduct your interview online by video conference. Did you pass the interview? Congratulations! You'll now receive an acceptance letter and your study contract from us. Please sign the contract and return it to us. You then pay the registration fee and, if you come from a country outside the EU, the tuition fees for the first academic year. We'll then send you your letter of acceptance. The next step involves enjoying our "Welcome Days" programme: during our orientation sessions at the beginning of your programme on 1 October or 1 April, you'll get to know your fellow students, your school, your degree programme, the campus and many important parts of the university ? as well as taking part in lots of fun elements. In Germany. Worldwide. When we develop our degree programs, we always focus on the requirements of employers: our study model, the CORE principle, is geared to this. As a student, we teach you exactly the skills you will need later. That's why our close partnership with the real world is so important to us. With the impulses of our partners, we can continuously improve our study programs and adapt them to the needs of the market. A plus for our students We are well networked with renowned companies from a wide range of industries. In the Rhine-Neckar metropolitan region, global market leaders are among our partners. Some of them are represented on the practical advisory board of our degree programs and contribute their know-how in the form of teaching assignments, practical projects or internships. In addition to industrial and service companies, numerous institutions from the fields of sports and education are also cooperation partners of the SRH University Heidelberg. In addition, we are proud of our large network throughout the world and with our international partner universities. Studying with mental or physical disabilities We support you! At our university, students with mental or physical disabilities receive the best possible support. 11% of the 2.8 million or so students in Germany have an impairment that is relevant to their studies (survey on ?beeinträchtigt studieren ? best2? conducted by the Deutsches Studentenwerk (German National Association for Student Affairs)). SRH University Heidelberg was established in 1969 as an ?institution for the vocational rehabilitation of people with disabilities?, and we remain committed to this tradition. After all, our goal is to ensure that all our students can embark on a successful career after graduation. Studying with special support needs In more than two-thirds of our students with special support needs, the impairment is not visible. More than half of them study under ?rehabilitation status? as a result of mental illness, and receive benefits for participation in working life. They all have the option of benefiting from individual support and possible compensation for disadvantages in our flexible

CORE (Competence-Oriented Research and Education) study model. We offer you individual support in all our degree programmes, even if official regulations do not allow you to study under rehabilitation status. Scholarships are also available. "It's a matter of equal participation, and not just a kind gesture," remarked the Disability Officer of Baden-Württemberg, Stephanie Aeffner, who sits on the University Council of SRH University Heidelberg, where she studied Social Work.

contact Encyclopaedia Encyclopaedia Small alumni 1x1 Would you like to find out more about the meaning of "alumni, alumna and alma mater"? Our little alumni 1x1 gives you the answer. Alumni: This term is derived from the Latin "Alumnus" and means "pupil" or "nourished". It is used to describe graduates of both genders. Alumna: The female form of "alumni". It refers specifically to female graduates. Alumnus: The masculine form of "alumni", referring to male graduates. Alumnae: The female plural form of "alumna". Alumni: The masculine plural form of "alumnus". Alma Mater: This term comes from Latin and means "nurturing mother". It is used to describe the educational institution at which one has studied Source: <http://www.zedler-lexikon.de/index.html?c=blaettern&bandnummer=1&seitenzahl=801>Alumnus. Mission and vision of the alumni network We see alumni as a diverse group of people who have developed a special bond with SRH University Heidelberg during their studies, be it through their academic successes, their shared challenges or their shared experiences. That is why we welcome not only graduates but also those who have dropped out as alumni. Supporting our alumni beyond their studies is important to us. Your journey does not end when you graduate; on the contrary, it gains momentum. We are here to support you in the next phases of your professional and personal development. Whether you are looking for new career opportunities, continuing your education or simply want to stay in touch with your alma mater, we are here for you. SRH University Heidelberg values the diversity and commitment of our alumni, be it in the form of knowledge transfer, networking or supportive community. Your experiences and stories not only enrich our university community, but also help to build a vibrant and lasting connection between the university and its alumni. Embark on your career or self-employment WE SUPPORT YOU Ready for your dream job? As a graduate, a whole new world is open to you, but which is the right path? Who says that you have to go straight from university into a job? What if I'd prefer to be my own boss and want to put my start-up idea into practice? And how do I go about finding the perfect job for me? We'll accompany you on your path into the world of work. TIPS FOR STARTING YOUR CAREER How to jumpstart your career You've finished university and are now a fully-fledged graduate. Congratulations! As a graduate of SRH University Heidelberg, you have the best prospects in the labour market. Here you'll find out all you need to know to make a perfect transition to the world of work and jumpstart your career. Career goals: What do I really want? Knowing what you want is important ? we all know that. But in reality, many of us find it difficult to formulate concrete goals, whether with regard to our careers or our personal development. But if you are about to launch your career, now's the ideal time to think deeply about your wishes and expectations. Having goals gives you something to work towards, offering motivation and inspiration. And yet, your personal goals are bound to be as unique and different as we all are as individuals, especially at the start of your career: Do you want to be a high earner? Are you keen to assume responsibility? Are you looking for the perfect work-life balance? Or do you want to change the world for the better? Find out what is crucial to you, and how best to achieve your goals. Are you unsure how to go about this? You're not the only one! Make use of our career counselling ? we will be happy to help you: Our career advice Your USP: What makes you so special? Every individual is unique. The term ?unique selling point? (USP) originates from the world of advertising. It refers to one or more performance characteristics that clearly distinguish an offer from its competitors. What applies to products and services also applies to you when you start your career. After all, by submitting a job application, you are advertising yourself!

1. How do I go about identifying my USP? USPs are not just about skills that you can demonstrate based on the presentation of degrees and certificates. Of course it is primarily about your skills. What was your specialisation at university? Which languages do you speak? Which subjects did you get particularly good grades in? But other characteristics play a role when identifying what makes you unique: What are my values? What is important to me? What am I deeply committed to? Do I assume responsibility, e.g. in a club or as a volunteer, and am I able to motivate others? Am I a team player or a natural-born leader?

2. What do people around me say? Before starting out on your career, think deeply and ask yourself: What am I good at and what do I enjoy doing? Also listen to feedback from your friends, fellow students or lecturers, and compare how you assess yourself with what they say about your abilities. Many of us underestimate our potential and fail to recognise our strengths.

3. The right skills for the right job Once you know your abilities, you should then ask yourself whether your USP matches the job or sector that you are interested in. When mentioning your abilities ? in letters of application or later on in interviews ? try to back them up with specific examples and think about which of your skills are particularly appealing to your potential employer. 4. It's the combination that counts It is often the combination of individual characteristics and skills that makes each of us unique. In other words, it's the combination that counts. And above all: remember that you are just starting out in your career. At university, you acquired the qualifications you need to enter the workforce. But you will also be able to develop and hone your skills throughout your professional life. Working in Heidelberg and Germany As a business location, the Rhine-Neckar Metropolitan Region ? and Heidelberg in particular ? offer you the best conditions for starting out on your career. Ten of the 100 strongest listed companies have their headquarters here. What's more, over 160,000 companies in total make the region an economic engine for the whole of Germany. In other words, you and your expertise have come to the right place! Top location: Heidelberg, a strong business hub Heidelberg is a hub of knowledge-intensive services. Indicative of this is the fact that almost two-thirds of the 91,500 jobs subject to social insurance contributions in Heidelberg require appropriate qualifications. With a degree from SRH University Heidelberg, you will be well prepared to enter this demanding labour market. Heidelberg is home to more than 7,600 businesses and some 200 research institutes. According to the management consulting firm McKinsey, the city located at the edge of the Odenwald is on equal footing with major cities such as Berlin, Brussels and Rome. The unemployment rate is well below the national average. And the prospects are excellent: the city has been successful in attracting new companies that are looking for qualified skilled workers. Last but not least, Heidelberg is one of the most creative cities in Germany, a city where targeted funding is provided to the cultural and creative industries. This also has a positive impact on residents' satisfaction: besides being one of only three Sustainable Cities in Germany, Heidelberg also offers the second highest level of quality of life among all cities and districts. In other words, Heidelberg is an excellent place to live and work. Salary levels: great earning potential in Heidelberg University graduates generally have very good salary prospects in Germany. In fact, according to the job portal Stepstone, career entrants in Baden-Württemberg earn the most, with an average starting salary of ? 47,800. And in the ranking of German cities, Heidelberg takes an excellent tenth place: the average gross annual income is ? 61,577. Network of partners Having the right partners is essential ? you can depend on their support whenever you need them. SRH University Heidelberg can rely on a network of supporters ? meaning that you, as a graduate, can too! Benefit from our close relationships with our partners in business, government and the social sector ? whether you're looking for the perfect job, the right internship or a coveted trainee position ? and share your expertise with them. VOICES FROM PRACTICE What makes our graduates so special?

Konrad Martin Partner at WAYES: ?Consultants who come to us from SRH University Heidelberg are very well qualified to handle our restructuring mandates. In addition, we are always pleased to note that they are highly motivated to understand and resolve crisis situations in small and medium-sized enterprises. Based on our consistently positive experiences, we favourably consider applications from SRH graduates.?

Felix Dreyer ? SRH graduate Consultant at WAYES: ?The solution-focused, challenging way of working in management consultancy appealed to me greatly even before I started university. Given my specialisation at university and the internships I did, I knew I wanted to start working for a management consultancy after graduating. The technical and social skills I learned through the CORE Principle and my specialisation in Restructuring & Recapitalisation were key to my success in landing a job with WAYES.?

Marcus Nagel Co-CEO of JobRouter AG ?We have very positive experiences with SRH University Heidelberg graduates: they have a good combination of specialist knowledge and the ability to work independently and accept responsibility. This is why we would always consider SRH graduates again in the selection process.?

Johanna Karlberger - SRH graduate Head of People Management at JobRouter AG ?My Master?s programme in ?International Business and Company Law? enables me, in my current role of Head of People Management and member of the management team at JobRouter AG, to get involved in an enormous range of different company-wide issues.?

It refers to one or more performance characteristics that clearly distinguish an offer from its competitors. What applies to products and services also applies to you when you start your career. After all, by submitting a job application, you are advertising yourself!

1. How do I go about identifying my USP? USPs are not just about skills that you can demonstrate based on the presentation of degrees and certificates. Of course it is primarily about your skills. What was your specialisation at university? Which languages do you speak? Which subjects did you get particularly good grades in? But other characteristics play a role when identifying what makes you unique: What are my values? What is important to me? What am I deeply committed to? Do I assume responsibility, e.g. in a club or as a volunteer, and am I able to motivate others? Am I a team player or a natural-born leader?

2. What do people around me say? Before starting out on your career, think deeply and ask yourself: What am I good at and what do I enjoy doing? Also listen to feedback from your friends, fellow students or lecturers, and compare how you assess yourself with what they say about your abilities. Many of us underestimate our potential and fail to recognise our strengths. 3. The right skills for the right job

Once you know your abilities, you should then ask yourself whether your USP matches the job or sector that you are interested in. When mentioning your abilities ? in letters of application or later on in interviews ? try to back them up with specific examples and think about which of your skills are particularly appealing to your potential employer. 4. It?s the combination that counts It is often the combination of individual characteristics and skills that makes each of us unique. In other words, it?s the combination that counts. And above all: remember that you are just starting out in your career. At university, you acquired the qualifications you need to enter the workforce. But you will also be able to develop and hone your skills throughout your professional life.

Indicative of this is the fact that almost two-thirds of the 91,500 jobs subject to social insurance contributions in Heidelberg require appropriate qualifications. With a degree from SRH University Heidelberg, you will be well prepared to enter this demanding labour market. Heidelberg is home to more than 7,600 businesses and some 200 research institutes. According to the management consulting firm McKinsey, the city located at the edge of the Odenwald is on equal footing with major cities such as Berlin, Brussels and Rome. The unemployment rate is well below the national average. And the prospects are excellent: the city has been successful in attracting new companies that are looking for qualified skilled workers. Last but not least, Heidelberg is one of the most creative cities in Germany, a city where targeted funding is provided to the cultural and creative industries. This also has a positive impact on residents' satisfaction: besides being one of only three Sustainable Cities in Germany, Heidelberg also offers the second highest level of quality of life among all cities and districts. In other words, Heidelberg is an excellent place to live and work. Salary levels: great earning potential in Heidelberg University graduates generally have very good salary prospects in Germany. In fact, according to the job portal Stepstone, career entrants in Baden-Württemberg earn the most, with an average starting salary of € 47,800. And in the ranking of German cities, Heidelberg takes an excellent tenth place: the average gross annual income is € 61,577. Network of partners Having the right partners is essential ? you can depend on their support whenever you need them. SRH University Heidelberg can rely on a network of supporters ? meaning that you, as a graduate, can too! Benefit from our close relationships with our partners in business, government and the social sector ? whether you're looking for the perfect job, the right internship or a coveted trainee position ? and share your expertise with them. Konrad Martin Partner at WAYES: ?Consultants who come to us from SRH University Heidelberg are very well qualified to handle our restructuring mandates. In addition, we are always pleased to note that they are highly motivated to understand and resolve crisis situations in small and medium-sized enterprises. Based on our consistently positive experiences, we favourably consider applications from SRH graduates.? Felix Dreyer ? SRH graduate Consultant at WAYES: ?The solution-focused, challenging way of working in management consultancy appealed to me greatly even before I started university. Given my specialisation at university and the internships I did, I knew I wanted to start working for a management consultancy after graduating. The technical and social skills I learned through the CORE Principle and my specialisation in Restructuring & Recapitalisation were key to my success in landing a job with WAYES.? SRH University Heidelberg Your dreams are what motivate us Our goal is for you to successfully complete your degree and live your life without any worries, allowing you to start on the next chapter of your life ? confidently and independently. Passion for this goal drives our work. Every single day. SRH University Heidelberg SRH University Heidelberg About us We continually take the time to work with you personally to help you reach your goals. We employ our proven CORE Principle to structure all study goals and exam formats, as well as learning and teaching methods, to make studying enjoyable and help you achieve the best possible outcome in your studies. In doing so, our university received the Genius Loci Award for Excellence in Teaching from Stifterverband and the Volkswagen Foundation in 2018. At our University, you can choose from over 40 innovative degree programmes in the areas of computer science, media and design, business administration, engineering and architecture, the social sciences, law, therapy and psychology. As one of the oldest and largest private universities in Germany, we are part of a strong network of eight universities in all. Six SRH universities of applied sciences in Germany ? in Berlin, Fürth, Gera, Heidelberg, North Rhine-Westphalia and Riedlingen ? as well as SRH Paraguay and the EBS Universität für Wirtschaft und Recht in Wiesbaden Oestrich-Winkel. Studying is the beginning of an extraordinary process of learning that our students benefit from personally as well as professionally. They begin to understand their own abilities better and build on them through methodical and professional guidance. Prof. Dr. Carsten Diener, President of SRH University Heidelberg 6 schools 3.000 students 82 nations on campus Our CORE Principle Our CORE Principle A degree programme that puts you at the centre Study according to the CORE Principle! Application-oriented learning in small teams, step-by-step skills development in five-week sprints and individual support from lecturers. Pure frontal teaching is not practised at SRH. Instead, our lecturers act as your personal learning coaches. Together, you'll not only delve into the subject matter, but also hone your soft and hard skills. To do so, we rely on direct communication. Personalised advice, digital exchange and regular feedback are all very important to us. About the CORE Principle Your benefits That's what makes us. Excellent. Study at an accredited university with over 50 years of experience International. Your studies open the way to an international career. Modern. As a campus university, we offer you an optimal learning environment. Individual. You determine your path, we accompany you as learning coaches. Practical. With us you will acquire skills that are in demand in practice. Reliable. Your future is important to us. We keep our performance promise. Our values A passion for life. We are a part of SRH, a non-profit foundation working in the areas of education and health. For us, success is not just higher, faster, farther. We combine our social responsibilities with commercial exchange. Our common values For more than 50 years We guide people on their own individual path Pointing people towards their future, supporting them in maximising their employment potential, and individually shaping their education ? this is what we are passionate about. Founded in 1969, SRH University Heidelberg originally concentrated on rehabilitation in employment. 40 students from engineering, 60 from business administration and 30 from architecture came to us that first year to study. Today, there are over 3,400 students from 65 countries who are preparing for their careers with us. They have put their trust in our innovative study model, for which we received the Genius Loci Award for Excellence in Teaching from Stifterverband in 2018. Today, just as then, we are guiding them on their path to the future with passion. They have helped shape the development of our university: our presidents Prof. Dr. Carsten Diener (since May 2020) Prof. Dr. Katja Rade (2017-2020) Prof. Dr. Dr. h.c. Winterberg (2008-2017) Prof. Dr. Wolfram Hahn (1980-2008) Prof. Horst Methner (1972-1980) Prof. Werner Herrmann (1968-1972) Prof. Fritz Schulz-Linkholdt (Gründungsrektor) Interested? Get started now! Bachelor Bachelor's Degree - a strong foundation Master Master's Degree - start your career now My passion for life? Education and health. You will be tomorrow what you eat and study today. Our common values Our common values For more than 50 years We guide people on their own individual path Pointing people towards their future, supporting them in maximising their employment potential, and individually shaping their education ? this is what we are passionate about. Founded in 1969, SRH University Heidelberg originally concentrated on rehabilitation in employment. 40 students from engineering, 60 from business administration and 30 from architecture came to us that first year to study. Today, there are over 3,400 students from 65 countries who are preparing for their careers with us. They have put their trust in our innovative study model, for which we received the Genius Loci Award for Excellence in Teaching from Stifterverband in 2018. Today, just as then, we are guiding them on their path to the future with passion. They have helped shape the development of our university: our presidents Prof. Dr. Carsten Diener (since May 2020) Prof. Dr. Katja Rade (2017-2020) Prof. Dr. Dr. h.c. Winterberg (2008-2017) Prof. Dr. Wolfram Hahn (1980-2008) Prof. Horst Methner (1972-1980) Prof. Werner Herrmann (1968-1972) Prof. Fritz Schulz-Linkholdt (Gründungsrektor) For more than 50 years We guide people on their own individual path Pointing people towards their future, supporting them in maximising their employment potential, and individually shaping their education ? this is what we are passionate about. School of Information, Media and Design Practical orientation, innovation, humanity Innovative degree programmes focusing on digitalisation: this is what we ? the School of Information, Media and Design ? have been offering for more than 40 years, making us a pioneer in this education sector from day one. Since then, our goal has been to prepare you, as a student, in the best possible way for tomorrow's working world and more distant challenges. Our philosophy Our philosophy What makes your studies at our faculty so special Instead of designing education as a response to today's labour market, we respond to future demands. In doing so, we cooperate with companies both nationally and internationally, we help shape careers, and we develop sustainable educational concepts for the future. Based on our experience, we successfully focus on practical relevance: from design thinking methods in teaching and practical projects in our multimedia production studio to our own VR lab. Our students take an interdisciplinary approach to their studies, often working together with partners from the field, and always in touch with the latest trends.

School of Social and Legal Sciences Cohesion through diversity Our objective is to bring together law, social sciences and education in an interdisciplinary way, enabling us and students from each discipline to think outside the box. This means that, in addition to learning practice-relevant specialist knowledge, you'll also gain the key transferable skills needed to embark on your career.

Our philosophy Our philosophy What makes your studies at our faculty so special By studying at our School, you'll not only benefit from an excellent range of specialist courses: in addition to sharing our knowledge with you, we will, above all, support your self-development. By taking an integrated, interdisciplinary approach, you'll learn to recognise future challenges and develop solutions to address them, as well as how to handle responsibility and complex activities. We will teach you academic knowledge in a practical way and introduce you to the diversity of your discipline and neighbouring disciplines ? for a successful start to your career. Any questions? We are happy to help you.

Saint Augustine Exchange and study abroad Exchange and study abroad Experience Heidelberg! If you are an international exchange student from one of our partner universities, study with us for one or two semesters, dive into a truly international community, live and learn on campus ? in the heart of Europe. Discover German traditions, high-tech industries, and beautiful sites all over Europe within 3-5 hours' travel time. How to apply Your Application Process Apply for an exchange semester with us at your home university and get nominated. Your university will provide you with all relevant information. Nomination: Your home institution contacts SRH University Heidelberg to propose you as candidate for an exchange. Application: You apply as a student yourself. Registration: Once you are accepted, we will enrol you in the system as an exchange student and you will receive an email with your Wifi ID and your matriculation number Apply now for your exchange semester Your nomination Check with the International Office at your home university first: exchange students must be nominated by their home institution no later than four weeks prior to the application deadline. Your International Office will send your name, citizenship, email address, and study programme directly to us: international.office.hshd@srh.de. Your nomination will then be acknowledged and processed by the respective faculty in a separate selection procedure. Your application After you have received a welcoming email from the faculty you selected, you can apply online and upload the necessary documents. The titles of all documents must be formatted as ?last name, first name, document name.pdf? An official transcript of records or confirmation of courses taken at your home university Final school leaving certificate (high school graduation certificate ? date, grade) One photo (for the student ID card), passport format, .jpg A copy of your current passport Proof of proficiency in the German or English language (or a letter confirming native German/English proficiency) Learning Agreement: Only for non-EU students, Erasmus+ students: Please submit your Learning Agreement using the Erasmus+ App only. You have received detailed instructions from your SRH international coordinator in your nomination email. Online Learning Agreement (OLA) Only for EU Erasmus+ students Download instructions Course selection and language courses The respective faculties will inform applicants about the courses open to exchange students. All students ? German and international ? are offered a variety of foreign language courses (2 ECTS each) free of charge. Courses currently available include French, Spanish, Turkish, Chinese, English, and German of course. English and German are taught at various different levels, so your language skills will be assessed to determine the right level for placement in a class. Application Deadlines For autumn (beginning at the end of August or beginning on 1 October): 1 July For winter (beginning January or February): 1 November For spring (beginning on 1 April): 1 February Semester Dates Instead of teaching in semester-long courses, we have introduced sequential five-week blocks (with intensive study of just one or two subjects during the five-week period). There is no additional exam period, as exams are included within the five weeks. Students usually earn 8 ECTS per block, with 60 ECTS a year. Block 1: 1 Oct. ? mid Nov. Course selection and language courses

The respective faculties will inform applicants about the courses open to exchange students. All students – German and international – are offered a variety of foreign language courses (2 ECTS each) free of charge. Courses currently available include French, Spanish, Turkish, Chinese, English, and German of course. English and German are taught at various different levels, so your language skills will be assessed to determine the right level for placement in a class.

Application Deadlines

For autumn (beginning at the end of August or beginning on 1 October): 1 July
For winter (beginning January or February): 1 November
For spring (beginning on 1 April): 1 February

Semester Dates

Instead of teaching in semester-long courses, we have introduced sequential five-week blocks (with intensive study of just one or two subjects during the five-week period). There is no additional exam period, as exams are included within the five weeks. Students usually earn 8 ECTS per block, with 60 ECTS a year.

Block	Start	End

Our philosophy Our philosophy What makes your studies at our faculty so special Regional, national and international: at the School of Engineering and Architecture, we view the globalisation of the labour market as both a challenge and an opportunity ? especially for your professional future. As an architect or engineer, your future tasks will not just be limited to planning, design and construction: you'll also need to find creative and technical solutions to meet ecological and social requirements. We'll train you for this complex field of action: in a practice-relevant, interdisciplinary and solution-focused way. Our Welcome Days begin on October 2th, 2024, with an interactive campus rally: In a small group with other first year students, you will explore the campus and the university, solve small tasks together and make first contacts with your professors and fellow students. If there is a delay in your visa process and you cannot reach Germany in time, you can take part in the digital campus rally. In the days that follow, you will get to know your faculty and the university's procedures. 02 October 2024 | On-Campus Rally Campus Rally for all students from English-language study programmes: We are pleased to invite you personally to our Welcome Day event on our campus. To register for the event, please enter your personal registration code which you've already received via email. Then you will receive your confirmation of registration in an email containing all relevant information about your personal schedule and your personal badge. Please bring your personalised badge with you on the day of the event. Finally, we kindly ask you to be at the university (entrance of SRH University Heidelberg, Ludwig-Guttman-Str. 6, 69123 Heidelberg) on time on the day of the event so that you can start as relaxed and smoothly as possible. Data Privacy Policy Data protection and data security for our organisation?s customers and partners as well as interested parties and users of our website are of high importance within our organisation.
We created this Privacy Policy to provide you with an overview of how your personal data is collected and processed when using our website, and what you can do to ensure your data is better protected, where applicable. Data Processing Controller SRH Hochschulen GmbH - SRH datenschutzbeauftragter-srh@symbion-ag.de What is personal data? Personal data is any information that relates to an identified or identifiable natural person. What is essential here therefore is whether a personal reference can be made using the collected data. This includes information such as your name, address, telephone number or email address. Information which is not directly connected to your actual identity, such as favourite websites or number of users of a site, is not regarded as personal data. How do we collect and process your personal data? If the online service includes the option to enter personal or commercial data (email addresses, names, addresses, etc.), this data may be disclosed by the user on a purely voluntary basis. Emails are transmitted via a contact form. When you send such a message, your personal data is collected only to the extent necessary to reply. The email is sent in an unencrypted manner. If you have provided us with any personal data, we shall only use this data for the technical administration of the web pages and to respond to your wishes and requests, which as a rule means to process any contract concluded with you or to reply to any queries you may have. The legal basis for processing is Article 6(1)(a) and Article 6(1)(b) GDPR. It is only if you have given us your consent beforehand, or if you ? subject to it being provided for under statutory regulations ? have not raised an objection, that we will also use this data for product-related surveys, marketing and statistical purposes. In this case the legal basis for processing is Article 6(1)(a) GDPR and Article 6(1)(f) GDPR. Your personal data is not disclosed, sold or transmitted in any other way to third parties unless it is necessary in order to fulfil a contract or you have given your express consent. Any consent granted can be revoked at any time with future effect. How do we use your personal data and how do we disclose it? If the online service includes the option to enter personal or commercial data (email addresses, names, addresses, etc.), this data may be disclosed by the user on a purely voluntary basis. Emails are transmitted via a contact form. When you send such a message, your personal data is collected only to the extent necessary to reply. The email is sent in an unencrypted manner. If you have provided us with any personal data, we shall only use this data for the technical administration of the web pages and to respond to your wishes and requests, which as a rule means to process any contract concluded with you or to reply to any queries you may have. It is only if you have given us your consent beforehand, or if you ? subject to it being provided for under statutory regulations ? have not raised an objection, that we will also use this data for product-related surveys, marketing and statistical purposes. Your personal data is not disclosed, sold or transmitted in any other way to third parties unless it is necessary in order to fulfil a contract or you have given your express consent. Any consent granted can be revoked at any time with future effect. For how long will my data be stored? Generally speaking, we store all information that you send to us until the respective purpose, i.e. the contractual purpose, has been fulfilled. This means, for example, until any queries have been resolved, or in the case of newsletters, until you choose to unsubscribe from them. If an extended storage period is permissible by law, the data will be stored within this framework. If you no longer wish that we utilise your data, we will of course comply with this request immediately (please also refer to the address stated under "Contact"). When will my data be deleted? The deletion of the stored personal data is carried out if you revoke your consent to such storage, if knowledge of such data is no longer necessary for the fulfilment of the purpose pursued with the storage, or if the storage of such data is inadmissible on other legal grounds. Data for invoicing and accounting purposes will not be affected by a deletion request.

Use of cookies We make use of so-called cookies during your visit to our website. Cookies are small data files which are stored on your computer. Cookies help us check on the frequency of use and the number of users who visit our web pages, and to make our services to you as convenient and efficient as possible. On the one hand, we use so-called "session cookies", which are exclusively stored temporarily for the duration of your use of one of our web pages. On the other hand, we also use "permanent cookies" in order to record data on visitors who repeatedly access one of our web pages. The purpose of using cookies is to be able to offer you optimal user guidance as well as to "recognise" you and thus be able to present to you as diversified a website as possible along with new content during repeated use. The content of a permanent cookie is limited to an identification number. Name, IP address, etc. are not stored. No individual profile is created on your usage behaviour. Our website offer can also be used without cookies. You can change your browser settings to disable cookies, restrict them to certain websites or set your browser to alert you whenever a cookie is sent. Please note, however, that applying such settings may affect the way in which the website is displayed or limit user guidance. Cookies that are needed to carry out electronic communication processes or to provide certain functions that you wish to use (such as the shopping cart function) are stored on the basis of Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR. The website operator has a legitimate interest in storing cookies on your computer to allow it to provide you with a technically flawless, streamlined service. If other cookies (such as cookies for analysing your browsing behaviour) are stored on your computer, they will be treated separately in this Privacy Policy. What we do to ensure security of data processing

Our organisation takes all of the necessary technical and organisational security measures to ensure your personal data is protected from loss or misuse. Accordingly, your data shall be stored in a secure operational environment that is not open to the public. In certain cases, your personal data is encrypted by Secure Socket Layer technology (SSL) during transmission. This means that an approved encryption procedure is used for communication between your computer and our organisation's servers if your browser supports SSL. Or: SSL and TLS encryption For security reasons and to protect the transfer of confidential content, such as the orders or enquiries that you send to us as the website operators, this site uses SSL and TLS encryption. You can identify an encrypted connection from the padlock symbol in your browser bar and the fact that `http://` in the address bar changes to `https://`. If SSL or TLS encryption is enabled, the data you send to us cannot be read by third parties. Should you wish to contact our organisation via email, we would like to point out that the confidentiality of the transmitted information cannot be guaranteed. The content of emails may be viewed by third parties. We would therefore recommend that you arrange for confidential information to be sent to us exclusively by post. Your data protection rights

In accordance with the various statutory provisions in place, you shall be entitled to obtain information at any time, and free of charge, regarding your stored personal data, its origin and potential recipients and the purpose of the data processing (Article 15 GDPR) and, where applicable, the right to rectification of inaccurate data (Article 16 GDPR), the right to erasure of such data (Article 17 GDPR), the right to restriction of processing according to Article 18 GDPR, the right to object (Article 21 GDPR) and the right to receive the personal data that you have provided according to Article 20 GDPR. The limitations according to Sections 34 and 35 BDSG apply to the right to information and the right to erasure. In addition, you shall also have the right to lodge a complaint with a responsible supervisory authority in the event of infringements under data protection law (Article 77 GDPR in conjunction with Section 19 BDSG). The responsible supervisory authority in data protection matters is the state data protection officer of the federal state in which our organisation has its registered office. A list of data protection officers and their contact details can be found in the link below. List of data protection officers

How you can withdraw your consent to data processing

A lot of data processing operations can only take place with your express consent. You can withdraw your consent at any time. All you have to do is send us a simple email. The legality of any data processing carried out before you withdraw your consent will not be affected by the withdrawal of your consent.

Newsletter

If you have given us your explicit consent, we will use your email address and personal details you have provided on a voluntary basis in order to send you our newsletter on a regular basis. All you need to do is enter an email address in order to receive the newsletter. Additional personal details you have provided on a voluntary basis are merely used to personalise the newsletter. At the end of each newsletter, you will find a link where you can unsubscribe from the newsletter at any time. You can also unsubscribe from the newsletter at any time via email:

XX Google Analytics

We use Google Analytics, a web analysis service provided by Google Inc. ("Google"). The provider is Google Inc., 1600 Amphitheatre Parkway, Mountain View, CA 94043, USA. Google uses cookies. The information generated by the cookie regarding use of this website by the user is usually transferred to a Google server in the USA and stored there. Google will use this information on our behalf to evaluate use of our website by users, to produce reports on website activity for website operators and providing other services relating to website activity and internet usage. As part of this process, pseudonymised usage profiles of users may be generated out of the data processed. We only use Google Analytics with IP anonymisation enabled. This means that the IP address of users will first be abbreviated by Google within the member states of the European Union or in other states party to the European Economic Area. Only in exceptional cases will the full IP address be transferred to a Google server in the US and shortened there. On behalf of the operator of this website, Google will use this information to evaluate your use of the website in order to compile reports about website activities and to provide additional services relating to website and internet use. The IP address transmitted by the user's browser will not be merged with other data by Google.

Online appointment booking via eTermin This website uses the eTermin service for online appointment bookings. The provider is eTermin GmbH, Im Wiesengrund 8, 8304 Wallisellen, Switzerland (hereinafter referred to as "eTermin"). For the purpose of booking an appointment, you enter the requested data and the desired date in the mask provided for this purpose. The data entered will be used for the planning, realisation and, if necessary, follow-up of the appointment. Furthermore, eTermin records log files (number and time of page views, browser, browser version and operating system as well as an anonymised IP address). The appointment data is stored for us on the servers of eTermin, whose privacy policy you can view here: www.etermin.net/online-terminbuchung-datenschutz. The data you enter will remain with us until you ask us to delete it, revoke your consent to storage or the purpose for data storage no longer applies. Mandatory statutory provisions - in particular retention periods - remain unaffected. The legal basis for data processing is Art. 6 para. 1 lit. b GDPR, as the appointment enquiry is aimed at the conclusion of a contract. In addition, Art. 6 para. 1 lit. f GDPR applies. The website operator has a legitimate interest in making appointments with interested parties as uncomplicated as possible. If a corresponding consent has been requested, the processing is carried out on the basis of Art. 6 para. 1 lit. a GDPR and § 25 para. 1 TTDSG, insofar as the consent includes the storage of cookies or access to information in the user's terminal device (e.g. device fingerprinting) within the meaning of the TTDSG. Consent can be revoked at any time. We have concluded an order processing contract (AVV) with eTermin GmbH. This is a contract prescribed by data protection law, which ensures that the latter only processes the personal data of our website visitors in accordance with our instructions and in compliance with the GDPR. Browser Plugin You can prevent cookies from being stored by means of a special setting in your browser software; we must inform you, however, that if you do so, you will not be able to use all of the functions on this website fully. You can also prevent collection of the data (including your IP address) generated by the cookies and related to your use of the website by Google as well as the processing of this data by Google by downloading and installing the browser plug-in available at the following link: tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout. Further information on the use of data for advertising purposes by Google, as well as settings options and procedures available for opting out can be found on Google's website: - How Google uses information from sites or apps that use our services. - Advertising - Control the information Google uses to show you ads - Take control of your Google ads experience

Data processing We have concluded an agreement with Google on contract data processing and implement in full the strict provisions of the German data protection authorities for the use of Google Analytics. Google Adwords and Google Conversion Tracking We use the online advertising programme "Google AdWords" and conversion tracking in the context of Google AdWords. A cookie is placed on your computer by Google Adwords for this purpose if you have reached our website via a Google Ad. These cookies lose their effectiveness after 30 days and cannot be used for personal identification. If the user visits certain pages on our website and the cookie has not yet expired, both Google and we are able to recognise that you have clicked on the advert and have been forwarded to this page. Every Google AdWords customer receives a different cookie. Cookies therefore cannot be traced via the websites of AdWords customers. The information that is gathered with the help of conversion cookies serves to produce conversion statistics for AdWords customers who have opted for conversion tracking. As a result, the customers are informed about the total number of users who have clicked on their advert and have been forwarded to a site with a conversion tracking tag. However, they do not receive any information with which the users could be personally identified. Users who do not wish to participate in tracking can simply disable the Google conversion tracking cookie via their internet browser under the user settings. This user will then not be included in the conversion tracking statistics. The basis for storing

?conversion cookies? is Article 6(1)(f) GDPR. The website operator has a legitimate interest in analysing user behaviour in order to optimise both its web content and the advertising shown with it.

Google's Privacy Policy Google Analytics Remarketing Our websites make use of the functionality of Google Analytics Remarketing in conjunction with the multi-device functionality of Google AdWords and Google DoubleClick. The provider is Google Inc., 1600 Amphitheatre Parkway, Mountain View, CA 94043, USA. This functionality makes it possible with Google Analytics Remarketing to link ad target groups to the multi-device functionality of Google AdWords and Google DoubleClick. This enables interest-related and personalised ads, which have been adjusted for you based on your previous usage and browsing habits on a device (e.g. mobile phone), to be displayed on another one of your devices (e.g. tablet or PC). If you have given your consent accordingly, Google will then link your web and app browsing history to your Google account for this purpose. As a result, the same personalised ads will be displayed to you on each device on which you are logged in to your Google account. To support this feature, Google Analytics collects Google-authenticated IDs of users that are temporarily linked to our Google Analytics data to define and create audiences for multi-device ad promotion. You can permanently opt out of multi-device remarketing/targeting by disabling personalised ads in your Google Account; to do this, simply follow this link: www.google.com/settings/ads/onweb/. The aggregation of the data collected in your Google Account data is based solely on your consent, which you may give or withdraw from Google (Article 6(1)(a) GDPR). For data collection operations not merged into your Google Account (for example, because you do not have a Google Account or have objected to the merge), the collection of data is based on Article 6(1)(f) GDPR. The website operator has a legitimate interest in analysing anonymous user behaviour for promotional purposes. Further information along with the various privacy regulations can be found in Google's privacy policy link below.

Google's Privacy Policy Google Maps This site uses the Google Maps service via an API. The provider is Google Inc, 1600 Amphitheatre Parkway, Mountain View, CA 94043, USA. To use the functions of Google Maps, it is necessary to store your IP address. This information is usually transferred to a Google server in the USA and stored there. The provider of this site has no influence on this data transmission. Google

Maps is used in the interest of an appealing presentation of our online offers and to make it easy to find the places we indicate on the website. This constitutes a legitimate interest within the meaning of Art. 6 Para. 1 lit. f DSGVO. More information on the handling of user data can be found in Google's privacy policy. Google's Privacy Policy Google Search We are happy for you to search for content on our website by using our search function. We make use of Google's service for this purpose. Generally speaking, no data will be sent to the search engine provider (Google) if the official web pages of our organisation in which Google Custom Search is integrated are visited. Data is only transmitted to Google once the user has activated the Search box, started a full text search and accessed the search results page. The user's data is also transmitted to Google at the same time when using the search function within the search results page. Google uses cookies, such as the PREF, NID or SID cookie in order to tailor ads in Google products, such as Google Search, to your individual details. Google uses cookies, for example, to collect data about your most recent search requests, your previous interaction with ads from an advertiser or the search results and your visits to the website of an advertiser. By doing so, you will receive personalised ads on Google. By using the full text search and the accompanying visit to the search results page, you consent to the use of the Google search engine and, thus, the transmission of data to the Google service. These include, for example, search terms entered by you and the IP address of the computer you are using. Please note that other data protection standards apply to Google than the standards applicable to our organisation's online service. We wish to draw your explicit attention to the fact that the processing, including in particular the storage, deletion and use, of personal data that may potentially be transmitted is the responsibility of the search engine provider, and that our organisation, as the operator of its own website, does not have any influence on the nature and scope of the transmitted data or on its subsequent processing. If you are logged in to Google at the same time, the Google service is able to directly assign the information to your user profile. You should ensure you that you are logged out in order to avoid profile information about you being collected. More information on how user data is dealt with by Google Privacy Policy. Google's Privacy Policy Application and use of YouTube YouTube components are integrated into this website. YouTube is an internet video portal that gives video publishers the opportunity to upload video clips free of charge, and also gives other users the opportunity to view, rate and comment on these video clips free of charge. YouTube authorises the publication of all kinds of videos, which is why entire film and television programmes along with music videos, trailers or videos made by users themselves can be viewed via the internet portal. The operating company of YouTube is YouTube, LLC, 901 Cherry Ave., San Bruno, CA 94066, USA. YouTube, LLC is a subsidiary of Google Inc., 1600 Amphitheatre Pkwy, Mountain View, CA 94043-1351, USA. Each time you visit a page on our website into which a YouTube component has been integrated (YouTube Video), your internet browser is automatically instructed by the respective YouTube component to download the corresponding YouTube component from YouTube. Further information on YouTube can be retrieved at www.youtube.com/intl/en/yt/about/. As part of this technical process, YouTube and Google are both informed of the specific sub-pages on our website that you have visited. If you are logged in to YouTube at the same time, YouTube is informed when you visit a sub-page containing a YouTube video of which specific sub-page of our website the data subject has visited. This information is collated by YouTube and Google and assigned to the respective YouTube account of the data subject. YouTube and Google will always be informed via the YouTube component about the fact that the data subject has visited our website if you are also logged in to YouTube at the same time as visiting our website. This happens regardless of whether you click on a YouTube video or not. If you do not want such information to be transferred to YouTube and Google, you can prevent this from happening by logging out of your YouTube account before visiting our website. The privacy regulations published by YouTube give an insight into the collection, processing and use of personal data by YouTube and Google. Google's Privacy Policy Registration The data subject has the option to register on the website of the controller responsible for processing by entering personal data. In terms of which personal data is transmitted to the controller responsible for processing, this is evident from the respective input screen used for the registration. The personal data entered by the data subject will be collected and stored exclusively for internal use by the controller responsible for processing and for internal purposes. The controller responsible for processing may instigate disclosure to one or more processors, such as a package service provider, who will also only use the personal data for internal use attributable to the controller responsible for processing. By registering on the website of the controller responsible for processing, the IP address assigned by your internet service provider (ISP), the date and the time of the registration are stored. This data is stored against the backdrop that this is the only way to prevent misuse of our services, and that this data makes it possible, where required, to identify any criminal acts and copyright infringements committed. The storage of this data is necessary in this regard to protect the controller responsible for processing. No disclosure of this data is made to third parties, unless there is a legal obligation to pass this on or the disclosure of this data serves the purposes of criminal or law enforcement. Registration of the data subject by entering personal data on a voluntary basis helps the controller responsible for processing to offer to the data subject certain content or services that may only be offered to registered users owing to the nature of the issues involved. In addition, registration of the data subject (in the Privacy Policy Generator) enables monitoring of the use of text published by us and subject to copyright protection, along with a review of the linking and specification of the author's name, and is also used for internal documentation purposes. Furthermore, we also use the data collected via the Privacy Policy Generator for customer acquisition purposes, including in particular for contact by telephone and the dispatch of advertising material via post and email. The option remains open to registered individuals to arrange for the personal data specified for registration purposes to be deleted in its entirety from the database of the controller responsible for processing. The controller responsible for processing must provide information, upon request to do so and at any time, to each data subject as to what personal data is stored about the data subject. In addition, the controller responsible for processing must rectify or delete personal data upon request or receipt of information to do so by the data subject, unless such action runs contrary to statutory retention obligations. The data protection officer along with all of the employees of the controller responsible for processing named in this Privacy Policy are on hand for the data subject as the interlocutor in this context. Facebook Our website contains links to Facebook, an external social network. This website is operated solely by Facebook Inc., 1601 S.

California Ave, Palo Alto, CA 94304, USA (Facebook). The links within the framework of our website are identifiable by way of the Facebook logo or the "Like" add-on (no Facebook plug-ins are used). When visiting our website, the functionalities and the transmission of data to Facebook are not enabled automatically. It is only by clicking on the links that the Facebook plug-ins are enabled and your browser establishes a direct connection to Facebook's servers. If you follow the links and are also logged in to your Facebook user account at the same time, the information confirming you have visited our website will be forwarded to Facebook. Facebook is able to assign your visit to the website to your account. This information is transmitted to Facebook and stored there. In order to prevent this from happening, you need to log out of your Facebook account before clicking on the link. For information on the purpose and extent of data collection and the further processing and use of your data by Facebook as well your rights in this regard and settings options for the protection of your personal privacy, please refer to the Facebook Privacy Policy. Facebook's Privacy Policy

Nutzung von Facebook Remarketing We make use of the "Custom Audiences" remarketing function of Facebook Inc. ("Facebook") on our website. Visitors to our website are then presented with interest-based advertising ("Facebook Ads") when visiting Facebook's website. We have implemented Facebook's remarketing tag on our website for this purpose. This tag establishes a direct connection to Facebook's servers when visiting the website. Information is then transferred to the Facebook servers confirming that you have visited our website; Facebook assigns this information to your personal Facebook user account. You can find more detailed information on Facebook's collection and use of data, your associated rights and options for protecting your privacy in Facebook's Privacy Policy. Alternatively you can disable the "Custom Audiences" remarketing function at www.facebook.com/settings/. You must be logged in to Facebook to do this.

Facebook's Privacy Policy Twitter We have included a Twitter widget on our website to display tweets from our Twitter account. A connection to Twitter's servers is established. Log data is sent to Twitter after a cookie is placed on your computer. According to its own information, Twitter starts deleting, removing the identification or logging this data within a maximum 10 days; this can take up to a week. Further information can be found in Twitter's Privacy Policy. Twitter's Privacy Policy

Unibuddy The "Unibuddy" service is embedded into our websites and does not run on our servers. Unibuddy is used to connect you and your questions with current students, alumni, and staff via an iFramed chat on our website. In order to ensure that accessing our websites with embedded services does not automatically lead to third-party content being reloaded, in a first step we ask you in our cookie banner to allow this service. Only after a click on "okay", can content from Unibuddy be reloaded. We have no control over further data processing by Unibuddy. Embedding takes place on the basis of your consent pursuant to Art. 6 (1) 1 GDPR. Unibuddy's Privacy Policy Xing Events On our website, functions of the service "XING" and "XING Events" are integrated. "XING" is an internet-based social network. "XING Events" is a component for event marketing, event handling and ticketing. The operating company of XING and XING Events and the responsible party in terms of data protection law is XING SE, Hamburg, Germany. Each time one of our pages containing XING functions is called up, a connection to XING servers is established. As far as we are aware, no personal data is stored in this process. In particular, no IP addresses are stored or the user's behavior is evaluated. If you are logged in to XING, XING recognizes which websites you are visiting. This information is collected by XING and assigned to your XING account. If you purchase a ticket as part of an event using the ticketing functions of XING Events, XING Events stores your associated data for the purpose of processing the contract and may link this to your XING account. For further information on data protection at XING SE, please refer to the XING privacy policy. XING privacy policy Eveeno We use the event software eveeno (<https://eveeno.com/de/>) for the purpose of organising events. eveeno complies with the European Data Protection Regulation (DSGVO). The legal basis for the processing of your data is Art. 6 para. 1 p. 1 lit. a DSGVO. The applicable data protection regulations of eveeno can be found at eveeno.com/de/privacy, the contact details at eveeno.com/de/about. Matomo With your consent, we use the open-source software Matomo for analyzing and statistically evaluating the use of the website. For this purpose, cookies are used. The information obtained about the use of the website is transmitted exclusively to our servers and summarized in pseudonymous usage profiles. We use the data to evaluate the usage of the website. The collected data will not be shared with third parties. The IP addresses are anonymized (IP masking), so that allocation to individual users is not possible. The processing of data is based on Article 6(1)(a) of the GDPR. We pursue our legitimate interest in optimizing our website for our external representation. You can revoke your consent at any time by deleting the cookies in your browser or changing your privacy settings.

Matomo Cookieless Tracking

We utilize the open-source software Matomo for the analysis and statistical evaluation of anonymized usage data on our website. The information obtained regarding website usage is exclusively transmitted to our servers and summarized in anonymized usage profiles. We use this data to assess website usage. The collected data will not be shared with third parties. IP addresses are anonymized (IP masking), preventing any association with individual users. We have activated the "do-not-track" setting and ensured that personally identifiable information (such as email addresses) is not stored. Data processing is based on Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR, representing our legitimate interest in optimizing our online offerings. You have the option to decide whether this anonymized collection and analysis may take place. If you wish to opt out, please click the following link to place the Matomo deactivation cookie in your browser.

information that relates to an identified or identifiable natural person. What is essential here therefore is whether a personal reference can be made using the collected data. This includes information such as your name, address, telephone number or email address. Information which is not directly connected to your actual identity, such as favourite websites or number of users of a site, is not regarded as personal data. What is personal data? Personal data is any information that

How do we collect and process your personal data? If the online service includes the option to enter personal or commercial data (email addresses, names, addresses, etc.), this data may be disclosed by the user on a purely voluntary basis. Emails are transmitted via a contact form. When you send such a message, your personal data is collected only to the extent necessary to reply. The email is sent in an unencrypted manner. If you have provided us with any personal data, we shall only use this data for the technical administration of the web pages and to respond to your wishes and requests, which as a rule means to process any contract concluded with you or to reply to any queries you may have. The legal basis for processing is Article 6(1)(a) and Article 6(1)(b) GDPR. It is only if you have given us your consent beforehand, or if you ? subject to it being provided for under statutory regulations ? have not raised an objection, that we will also use this data for product-related surveys, marketing and statistical purposes. In this case the legal basis for processing is Article 6(1)(a) GDPR and Article 6(1)(f) GDPR. Your personal data is not disclosed, sold or transmitted in any other way to third parties unless it is necessary in order to fulfil a contract or you have given your express consent. Use of cookies We make use of so-called cookies during your visit to our website. Cookies are small data files which are stored on your computer. Cookies help us check on the frequency of use and the number of users who visit our web pages, and to make our services to you as convenient and efficient as possible. On the one hand, we use so-called "session cookies", which are exclusively stored temporarily for the duration of your use of one of our web pages. On the other hand, we also use "permanent cookies" in order to record data on visitors who repeatedly access one of our web pages. The purpose of using cookies is to be able to offer you optimal user guidance as well as to "recognise" you and thus be able to present to you as diversified a website as possible along with new content during repeated use. The content of a permanent cookie is limited to an identification number. Name, IP address, etc. are not stored. No individual profile is created on your usage behaviour. Our website offer can also be used without cookies. You can change your browser settings to disable cookies, restrict them to certain websites or set your browser to alert you whenever a cookie is sent. Please note, however, that applying such settings may affect the way in which the website is displayed or limit user guidance. Cookies that are needed to carry out electronic communication processes or to provide certain functions that you wish to use (such as the shopping cart function) are stored on the basis of Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR. The website operator has a legitimate interest in storing cookies on your computer to allow it to provide you with a technically flawless, streamlined service. If other cookies (such as cookies for analysing your browsing behaviour) are stored on your computer, they will be treated separately in this Privacy Policy.

What we do to ensure security of data processing

Our organisation takes all of the necessary technical and organisational security measures to ensure your personal data is protected from loss or misuse. Accordingly, your data shall be stored in a secure operational environment that is not open to the public. In certain cases, your personal data is encrypted by Secure Socket Layer technology (SSL) during transmission. This means that an approved encryption procedure is used for communication between your computer and our organisation's servers if your browser supports SSL.

Or: SSL and TLS encryption

For security reasons and to protect the transfer of confidential content, such as the orders or enquiries that you send to us as the website operators, this site uses SSL and TLS encryption. You can identify an encrypted connection from the padlock symbol in your browser bar and the fact that ?http://? in the address bar changes to ?https://?. If SSL or TLS encryption is enabled, the data you send to us cannot be read by third parties. Should you wish to contact our organisation via email, we would like to point out that the confidentiality of the transmitted information cannot be guaranteed. The content of emails may be viewed by third parties. We would therefore recommend that you arrange for confidential information to be sent to us exclusively by post. Online appointment booking via etermin This website uses the eTermin service for online appointment bookings. The provider is eTermin GmbH, Im Wiesengrund 8, 8304 Wallisellen, Switzerland (hereinafter referred to as "eTermin"). For the purpose of booking an appointment, you enter the requested data and the desired date in the mask provided for this purpose. The data entered will be used for the planning, realisation and, if necessary, follow-up of the appointment. Furthermore, eTermin records log files (number and time of page views, browser, browser version and operating system as well as an anonymised IP address). The appointment data is stored for us on the servers of eTermin, whose privacy policy you can view here: www.etermin.net/online-terminbuchung-datenschutz. The data you enter will remain with us until you ask us to delete it, revoke your consent to storage or the purpose for data storage no longer applies. Mandatory statutory provisions - in particular retention periods - remain unaffected. The legal basis for data processing is Art. 6 para. 1 lit. b GDPR, as the appointment enquiry is aimed at the conclusion of a contract. In addition, Art. 6 para. 1 lit. f GDPR applies. The website operator has a legitimate interest in making appointments with interested parties as uncomplicated as possible. If a corresponding consent has been requested, the processing is carried out on the basis of Art. 6 para. 1 lit. a GDPR and § 25 para. 1 TTDSG, insofar as the consent includes the storage of cookies or access to information in the user's terminal device (e.g. device fingerprinting) within the meaning of the TTDSG. Consent can be revoked at any time. We have concluded an order processing contract (AVV) with eTermin GmbH. This is a contract prescribed by data protection law, which ensures that the latter only processes the personal data of our website visitors in accordance with our instructions and in compliance with the GDPR.

Google Adwords and Google Conversion Tracking We use the online advertising programme "Google AdWords" and conversion tracking in the context of Google

AdWords. A cookie is placed on your computer by Google Adwords for this purpose if you have reached our website via a Google Ad. These cookies lose their effectiveness after 30 days and cannot be used for personal identification. If the user visits certain pages on our website and the cookie has not yet expired, both Google and we are able to recognise that you have clicked on the advert and have been forwarded to this page. Every Google AdWords customer receives a different cookie. Cookies therefore cannot be traced via the websites of AdWords customers. The information that is gathered with the help of conversion cookies serves to produce conversion statistics for AdWords customers who have opted for conversion tracking. As a result, the customers are informed about the total number of users who have clicked on their advert and have been forwarded to a site with a conversion tracking tag. However, they do not receive any information with which the users could be personally identified. Users who do not wish to participate in tracking can simply disable the Google conversion tracking cookie via their internet browser under the user settings. This user will then not be included in the conversion tracking statistics. The basis for storing ?conversion cookies? is Article 6(1)(f) GDPR. The website operator has a legitimate interest in analysing user behaviour in order to optimise both its web content and the advertising shown with it.

Google's Privacy Policy Google's Privacy Policy Google Analytics Remarketing Our websites make use of the functionality of Google Analytics Remarketing in conjunction with the multi-device functionality of Google AdWords and Google DoubleClick. The provider is Google Inc., 1600 Amphitheatre Parkway, Mountain View, CA 94043, USA. This functionality makes it possible with Google Analytics Remarketing to link ad target groups to the multi-device functionality of Google AdWords and Google DoubleClick. This enables interest-related and personalised ads, which have been adjusted for you based on your previous usage and browsing habits on a device (e.g. mobile phone), to be displayed on another one of your devices (e.g. tablet or PC). If you have given your consent accordingly, Google will then link your web and app browsing history to your Google account for this purpose. As a result, the same personalised ads will be displayed to you on each device on which you are logged in to your Google account. To support this feature, Google Analytics collects Google-authenticated IDs of users that are temporarily linked to our Google Analytics data to define and create audiences for multi-device ad promotion. You can permanently opt out of multi-device remarketing/targeting by disabling personalised ads in your Google Account; to do this, simply follow this link: www.google.com/settings/ads/onweb/. The aggregation of the data collected in your Google Account data is based solely on your consent, which you may give or withdraw from Google (Article 6(1)(a) GDPR). For data collection operations not merged into your Google Account (for example, because you do not have a Google Account or have objected to the merge), the collection of data is based on Article 6(1)(f) GDPR. The website operator has a legitimate interest in analysing anonymous user behaviour for promotional purposes. YouTube and Google will always be informed via the YouTube component about the fact that the data subject has visited our website if you are also logged in to YouTube at the same time as visiting our website. This happens regardless of whether you click on a YouTube video or not. If you do not want such information to be transferred to YouTube and Google, you can prevent this from happening by logging out of your YouTube account before visiting our website. The privacy regulations published by YouTube give an insight into the collection, processing and use of personal data by YouTube and Google. Google's Privacy Policy Application and use of YouTube YouTube components are integrated into this website. YouTube is an internet video portal that gives video publishers the opportunity to upload video clips free of charge, and also gives other users the opportunity to view, rate and comment on these video clips free of charge. YouTube authorises the publication of all kinds of videos, which is why entire film and television programmes along with music videos, trailers or videos made by users themselves can be viewed via the internet portal. The operating company of YouTube is YouTube, LLC, 901 Cherry Ave., San Bruno, CA 94066, USA. YouTube, LLC is a subsidiary of Google Inc., 1600 Amphitheatre Pkwy, Mountain View, CA 94043-1351, USA. Each time you visit a page on our website into which a YouTube component has been integrated (YouTube Video), your internet browser is automatically instructed by the respective YouTube component to download the corresponding YouTube component from YouTube. Further information on YouTube can be retrieved at www.youtube.com/intl/en/yt/about/. As part of this technical process, YouTube and Google are both informed of the specific sub-pages on our website that you have visited. If you are logged in to YouTube at the same time, YouTube is informed when you visit a sub-page containing a YouTube video of which specific sub-page of our website the data subject has visited. In terms of which personal data is transmitted to the controller responsible for processing, this is evident from the respective input screen used for the registration. The personal data entered by the data subject will be collected and stored exclusively for internal use by the controller responsible for processing and for internal purposes. The controller responsible for processing may instigate disclosure to one or more processors, such as a package service provider, who will also only use the personal data for internal use attributable to the controller responsible for processing. By registering on the website of the controller responsible for processing, the IP address assigned by your internet service provider (ISP), the date and the time of the registration are stored. This data is stored against the backdrop that this is the only way to prevent misuse of our services, and that this data makes it possible, where required, to identify any criminal acts and copyright infringements committed. The storage of this data is necessary in this regard to protect the controller responsible for processing. No disclosure of this data is made to third parties, unless there is a legal obligation to pass this on or the disclosure of this data serves the purposes of criminal or law enforcement. Registration of the data subject by entering personal data on a voluntary basis helps the controller responsible for processing to offer to the data subject certain content or services that may only be offered to registered users owing to the nature of the issues involved. In addition, registration of the data subject (in the Privacy Policy Generator) enables monitoring of the use of text published by us and subject to copyright protection, along with a review of the linking and specification of the author's name, and is also used for internal documentation purposes. Furthermore, we also use the data collected via the Privacy Policy Generator for customer acquisition purposes, including in particular for contact by telephone and the dispatch of advertising material via post and email. The option remains open to registered individuals to arrange for the personal data specified for registration purposes to be deleted in its entirety from the database of the controller responsible for processing. The controller responsible for processing must provide information, upon request to do so and at any time, to each data subject as to what personal data is stored about the data subject. In addition, the controller responsible for processing must rectify or delete personal data upon request or receipt of information to do so by the data subject, unless such action runs contrary to statutory retention obligations. The data protection officer along with all of the employees of the controller responsible for processing named in this Privacy Policy are on hand for the data subject as the interlocutor in this context. Your experience abroad Do you want to dive into a foreign culture and get to know new people? Do you want to live in a different country to study or work? Periods abroad not only look good on your CV, but also give you incomparable experience. You'll develop personally as well as professionally, and form new, unexpected friendships. Discover the possibilities Your personal path across the world Whether it's for a week or for an entire year, there are numerous ways to spend part of your studies in a foreign country ? by taking a semester abroad, doing an internship, or attending a summer school. No matter what, it'll be an unforgettable experience, and you'll create lifelong friendships and memories. Study abroad For Bachelor's students, the second or third year of the degree is the ideal time to spend a semester abroad at one of our 80 partner universities. For Master's students, we recommend that you discuss the matter with your programme director as soon as you start your course. Depending on the partner university, a semester abroad lasts three to five months and begins either in autumn or in spring. Since places at our partner universities are limited, there may be a selection procedure if there are more applicants than places ? outstanding academic achievements and getting involved in international activities will help you get ahead. Discuss the application process with your faculty advisor, because one of the most important requirements for successful study abroad is careful, timely planning. An internship abroad Internships are a required element of all Bachelor curricula and in many Master's programmes, but these can also be completed abroad. Hands-on experience in a foreign country will give you an ace up your sleeve with prospective employers. Check out the ERASMUS intern Website to see if you can find an internship that fits your interests. The length of an internship and the payment involved can vary drastically depending on the country and the industry. Or talk to your professors to see if they have any ideas for you. The DAAD also has information and advice on this topic. Writing your thesis abroad Our professors have a broad network of international contacts. Students in STEM disciplines in particular can collaborate on research projects and write their theses with internationally renowned scholars. Discuss this possibility with your professor.

Summer Schools or an International Week Are you thinking about trying to get international experience, but would rather not spend an extended time abroad? In that case, a summer school or an international week is perfect for you. Many of our partner universities (for example, in Korea, the Netherlands and the UK) offer programmes lasting two to five weeks in the summer, and some offer international weeks (such as in Hungary, Belgium and Finland) that only last a week. Take a look at your faculty's blackboard or ask the International Office for advice. Alternatively, you can also establish international contacts here at home if you take part in one of the summer schools that SRH University Heidelberg hosts on various topics.

Our International Network Our Partner Universities SRH University Heidelberg maintains a broad network of partnerships all over the world. We are constantly exploring new opportunities to offer you a fantastic experience worldwide.

Our Partner Universities Checklist Going abroad: step by step If you want to go abroad, try to start planning a year ahead. This checklist will help you with organising and financing, one step at a time. If you have any questions, feel free to ask at our International Office. We'd be glad to help!

1. Find out about opportunities through your faculty Talk to the international coordinator in your faculty about what options you have to study abroad for a semester at one of our partner universities. Your faculty's coordinator can explain, for example, which classes you should take abroad that will be recognised after your return home so that you don't need to prolong your studies.
2. Demonstrate proof of your language skills Generally speaking, partner universities require proof of your language skills. Usually, American, Australian, British and some European universities require a certain score on a TOEFL or IELTS test. Many of our partner universities, however, will also approve your application with confirmation from a lecturer. Talk to your coordinator about the requirements at your dream university.
3. Make arrangements for your journey, including getting a visa, if necessary If you have selected a host country outside the EU for your study abroad, you may need a visa to enter the country, depending on your nationality. Ask the embassy or consulate of the host country you are interested in about visa requirements. Some of the necessary documents may have to be issued or stamped by SRH University Heidelberg or your host university. This process may take a few weeks, so it's important to plan ahead. If it's necessary to apply for a student visa, do not enter the host country as a tourist.

4. Look for suitable accommodation It's not always easy to find decent housing abroad when looking from Germany. Discuss this topic with the international coordinator at your faculty or with the International Office to find out which universities have student dorms available. You can also contact students who have previously attended the partner university through the International Office. Some universities offer assistance in finding accommodation, and in some countries, there are companies that will arrange housing for you.

5. Make sure your health insurance and your accident and liability insurance policies are in order Within the EU, it is possible to use an EU-wide health insurance card (known as an EHIC card – look at the reverse side of your health insurance card) if you need health care. Ask your insurance provider and discuss if it makes sense to take out supplemental health insurance for periods abroad. As soon as you enter a country outside the EU that Germany does not have a treaty with on mutual recognition on social insurance, you'll need to obtain private supplemental health insurance. Your health insurance provider can advise you about this. Some universities (particularly in the USA) require that you obtain health insurance specifically for exchange students. To study at partner universities in the UK, you must enrol in the NHS (National Health Service). For accident and liability insurance, there are many private agencies. The DAAD also offers a combined travel and liability insurance policy worth recommending. For internships abroad, this insurance is mandatory.

6. Get your vaccinations In some countries, certain vaccinations are required or recommended. Your local GP, health insurance company, or the embassy can give you more information. Plan ahead when getting vaccinations, because their effects are not always immediate.

7. Add up the costs of your stay abroad If you're going to study at a partner university or do an internship abroad, you'll still have to pay your tuition fees at SRH University Heidelberg. However, you will not be required to pay tuition fees at the partner university. The cost of studying abroad depends greatly on your individual needs and the cost of living in the host country. There are also highly interesting possibilities in European countries with lower costs of living, which are covered by Erasmus funding. Things to consider include: Travel costs (travel to destination and during the stay abroad) Housing costs (at some American universities, exchange students are required to live in ? expensive ? on-campus housing) Housing costs at home (plan on subletting) Health insurance contributions abroad and/or travel insurance (especially non-EU) Documents (passport, visa) Vaccinations (sometimes required) Books and lecture documents (up to $ 500 in the USA) Living expenses Personal expenses (e.g. for recreation)

8. Check out your funding options If you'd like to study or do an internship in a European country, you can apply for Erasmus funding from the EU. You'll then be a proud DAAD scholar and can add this accomplishment to your CV. There's also financial assistance available to study or work in countries outside the EU? visit the International Office to find out more. WE ARE HAPPY TO HELP YOU! Take a look at your faculty?s blackboard or ask the International Office for advice. Alternatively, you can also establish international contacts here at home if you take part in one of the summer schools that SRH University Heidelberg hosts on various topics. Discover the possibilities Your personal path across the world Whether it?s for a week or for an entire year, there are numerous ways to spend part of your studies in a foreign country ? by taking a semester abroad, doing an internship, or attending a summer school. No matter what, it?ll be an unforgettable experience, and you?ll create lifelong friendships and memories. Study abroad For Bachelor's students, the second or third year of the degree is the ideal time to spend a semester abroad at one of our 80 partner universities. For Master's students, we recommend that you discuss the matter with your programme director as soon as you start your course. Depending on the partner university, a semester abroad lasts three to five months and begins either in autumn or in spring. Since places at our partner universities are limited, there may be a selection procedure if there are more applicants than places – outstanding academic achievements and getting involved in international activities will help you get ahead. Discuss the application process with your faculty advisor, because one of the most important requirements for successful study abroad is careful, timely planning. An internship abroad Internships are a required element of all Bachelor curricula and in many Master's programmes, but these can also be completed abroad. Hands-on experience in a foreign country will give you an ace up your sleeve with prospective employers. Check out the ERASMUS intern Website to see if you can find an internship that fits your interests. The length of an internship and the payment involved can vary drastically depending on the country and the industry. Or talk to your professors to see if they have any ideas for you. The DAAD also has information and advice on this topic. Writing your thesis abroad Our professors have a broad network of international contacts. Students in STEM disciplines in particular can collaborate on research projects and write their theses with internationally renowned scholars. Discuss this possibility with your professor. Summer Schools or an International Week Are you thinking about trying to get international experience, but would rather not spend an extended time abroad? In that case, a summer school or an international week is perfect for you. Many of our partner universities (for example, in Korea, the Netherlands and the UK) offer programmes lasting two to five weeks in the summer, and some offer international weeks (such as in Hungary, Belgium and Finland) that only last a week. Take a look at your faculty's blackboard or ask the International Office for advice. Our Partner Universities Our Partner Universities Checklist Going abroad: step by step If you want to go abroad, try to start planning a year ahead. This checklist will help you with organising and financing, one step at a time. If you have any questions, feel free to ask at our International Office. We'd be glad to help! 1. Find out about opportunities through your faculty Talk to the international coordinator in your faculty about what options you have to study abroad for a semester at one of our partner universities. Your faculty's coordinator can explain, for example, which classes you should take abroad that will be recognised after your return home so that you don't need to prolong your studies. 2. Demonstrate proof of your language skills Generally speaking, partner universities require proof of your language skills. Usually, American, Australian, British and some European universities require a certain score on a TOEFL or IELTS test. Many of our partner universities, however, will also approve your application with confirmation from a lecturer. Talk to your coordinator about the requirements at your dream university. 3. Make arrangements for your journey, including getting a visa, if necessary If you have selected a host country outside the EU for your study abroad, you may need a visa to enter the country, depending on your nationality. Ask the embassy or consulate of the host country you are interested in about visa requirements. Some of the necessary documents may have to be issued or stamped by SRH University Heidelberg or your host university. This process may take a few weeks, so it's important to plan ahead. If it's necessary to apply for a student visa, do not enter the host country as a tourist. 4. Look for suitable accommodation It's not always easy to find decent housing abroad when looking from Germany. Discuss this topic with the international coordinator at your faculty or with the International Office to find out which universities have student dorms available. You can also contact students who have previously attended the partner university through the International Office. Some universities offer assistance in finding accommodation, and in some countries, there are companies that will arrange housing for you.

5. Make sure your health insurance and your accident and liability insurance policies are in order. Within the EU, it is possible to use an EU-wide health insurance card (known as an EHIC card – look at the reverse side of your health insurance card) if you need health care. Ask your insurance provider and discuss if it makes sense to take out supplemental health insurance for periods abroad. As soon as you enter a country outside the EU that Germany does not have a treaty with on mutual recognition on social insurance, you'll need to obtain private supplemental health insurance. Your health insurance provider can advise you about this. Some universities (particularly in the USA) require that you obtain health insurance specifically for exchange students. To study at partner universities in the UK, you must enrol in the NHS (National Health Service). For accident and liability insurance, there are many private agencies. The DAAD also offers a combined travel and liability insurance policy worth recommending. For internships abroad, this insurance is mandatory.

6. Get your vaccinations. In some countries, certain vaccinations are required or recommended. Your local GP, health insurance company, or the embassy can give you more information. Plan ahead when getting vaccinations, because their effects are not always immediate.

7. Add up the costs of your stay abroad. If you're going to study at a partner university or do an internship abroad, you'll still have to pay your tuition fees at SRH University Heidelberg. However, you will not be required to pay tuition fees at the partner university. The cost of studying abroad depends greatly on your individual needs and the cost of living in the host country. There are also highly interesting possibilities in European countries with lower costs of living, which are covered by Erasmus funding. Things to consider include:

- Travel costs (travel to destination and during the stay abroad)
- Housing costs (at some American universities, exchange students are required to live in – expensive – on-campus housing)
- Housing costs at home (plan on subletting)
- Health insurance contributions abroad and/or travel insurance (especially non-EU)
- Documents (passport, visa)
- Vaccinations (sometimes required)
- Books and lecture documents (up to $ 500 in the USA) Living expenses Personal expenses (e.g. for recreation)

8. Check out your funding options If you'd like to study or do an internship in a European country, you can apply for Erasmus funding from the EU. You'll then be a proud DAAD scholar and can add this accomplishment to your CV. There's also financial assistance available to study or work in countries outside the EU? visit the International Office to find out more.

Make arrangements for your journey, including getting a visa, if necessary If you have selected a host country outside the EU for your study abroad, you may need a visa to enter the country, depending on your nationality. Ask the embassy or consulate of the host country you are interested in about visa requirements. Some of the necessary documents may have to be issued or stamped by SRH University Heidelberg or your host university. This process may take a few weeks, so it's important to plan ahead. If it's necessary to apply for a student visa, do not enter the host country as a tourist.
4. Look for suitable accommodation It's not always easy to find decent housing abroad when looking from Germany. Discuss this topic with the international coordinator at your faculty or with the International Office to find out which universities have student dorms available. You can also contact students who have previously attended the partner university through the International Office. Some universities offer assistance in finding accommodation, and in some countries, there are companies that will arrange housing for you.
5. Make sure your health insurance and your accident and liability insurance policies are in order Within the EU, it is possible to use an EU-wide health insurance card (known as an EHIC card - look at the reverse side of your health insurance card) if you need health care. Ask your insurance provider and discuss if it makes sense to take out supplemental health insurance for periods abroad. As soon as you enter a country outside the EU that Germany does not have a treaty with on mutual recognition on social insurance, you'll need to obtain private supplemental health insurance. Your health insurance provider can advise you about this. Some universities (particularly in the USA) require that you obtain health insurance specifically for exchange students. To study at partner universities in the UK, you must enrol in the NHS (National Health Service). For accident and liability insurance, there are many private agencies. The DAAD also offers a combined travel and liability insurance policy worth recommending. For internships abroad, this insurance is mandatory.

6. Get your vaccinations In some countries, certain vaccinations are required or recommended. Your local GP, health insurance company, or the embassy can give you more information. Plan ahead when getting vaccinations, because their effects are not always immediate.

7. Add up the costs of your stay abroad If you're going to study at a partner university or do an internship abroad, you'll still have to pay your tuition fees at SRH University Heidelberg. However, you will not be required to pay tuition fees at the partner university. The cost of studying abroad depends greatly on your individual needs and the cost of living in the host country. There are also highly interesting possibilities in European countries with lower costs of living, which are covered by Erasmus funding. Things to consider include:

- Travel costs (travel to destination and during the stay abroad)
- Housing costs (at some American universities, exchange students are required to live in ? expensive ? on-campus housing)
- Housing costs at home (plan on subletting)
- Health insurance contributions abroad and/or travel insurance (especially non-EU)
- Documents (passport, visa)
- Vaccinations (sometimes required)
- Books and lecture documents (up to $ 500 in the USA)
- Living expenses
- Personal expenses (e.g. for recreation)

8. Check out your funding options If you'd like to study or do an internship in a European country, you can apply for Erasmus funding from the EU. You'll then be a proud DAAD scholar and can add this accomplishment to your CV. There's also financial assistance available to study or work in countries outside the EU? visit the International Office to find out more.

1. Find out about opportunities through your faculty Talk to the international coordinator in your faculty about what options you have to study abroad for a semester at one of our partner universities. Your faculty's coordinator can explain, for example, which classes you should take abroad that will be recognised after your return home so that you don't need to prolong your studies. 2. Demonstrate proof of your language skills Generally speaking, partner universities require proof of your language skills. Usually, American, Australian, British and some European universities require a certain score on a TOEFL or IELTS test. Many of our partner universities, however, will also approve your application with confirmation from a lecturer. Talk to your coordinator about the requirements at your dream university. Accreditation and rankings Are your standards high? Ours are too. You can trust the quality of our educational programmes. Quality that sets your studies apart We offer award-winning, internationally recognised degree programmes. As a system-accredited university with permanent state recognition, we bear the quality seal of the German Accreditation Council. Our degree programmes occupy top positions in national and international rankings.

State of Baden-Wuerttemberg Permanent state recognition SRH University Heidelberg is a state-recognised private university. It was first recognised in 1972 by a decision of the Baden-Württemberg Ministry of Science, Research and Arts. All degree programmes are accredited according to the provisions of the Federal State Higher Education Act (Landeshochschulgesetz). Our University is one of the few private institutions that enjoys permanent state recognition.

Institutional Accrediation State of Baden-Wuerttemberg German Science Council Institutional recognition In 2003, SRH University Heidelberg became one of the first universities to successfully undergo the institutional accreditation procedure of the Wissenschaftsrat (the German Council of Science and Humanities). The Wissenschaftsrat is the most important advisory body in Germany for academic policymaking. Institutional accreditation demonstrates the University's scientific rigorousness in teaching and research. In July 2009, the Wissenschaftsrat renewed its decision in a reaccreditation process.

German Council of Science and Humanities Accreditation Council A system-accredited university We are system-accredited and bear the quality seal of the German Accreditation Council ? which means that the excellent quality of our degree programmes and the recognition of your degree are guaranteed. The quality seal of the German Accreditation Council acknowledges the high standards of our University's teaching and learning. Moreover, we are entitled to use our tested quality assurance processes to accredit our degree programmes ourselves. As a result, you can be certain that you'll graduate from a cutting-edge, hands-on, methodologically tested degree programme. And you'll have the knowledge that we follow certified procedures in planning, teaching and evaluating your work. The German Accreditation Council is a joint institution set up by Germany's 16 states to maintain the high quality of teaching and learning at German universities.

Accreditation Council Genius Loci Award The Genius Loci Award for Excellence in Teaching In 2018,

Stifterverband and the Volkswagen Foundation honoured our teaching and learning model, the CORE Principle, with the Genius Loci Award, the only prize in Germany awarded for outstanding teaching to institutions. SRH University Heidelberg created the CORE Principle (Competence-Oriented Research and Education) in 2012 as a unique teaching and learning model based on cutting-edge scientific findings from pedagogy and brain research: students delve into a single topic for five weeks ? harnessing their own responsibility and working in small groups, and coached by our lecturers. At the end of the five weeks, students are tested to see if they can put the skills they have learned into practice ? for example, in the form of mock annual general meetings, presentations or exhibition concepts. Learn more about the CORE Principle Rankings Top Positions in University Rankings CHE Ranking SRH University Heidelberg received top marks from its students in the latest CHE University Rankings. The CHE University Ranking involves collecting information and facts about study, teaching and research at more than 300 universities and universities of applied sciences under review, as well as surveying around 120,000 students to find out what they think about the conditions at their HEI. CHE Ranking U-Multirank In the U-Multirank global comparison of universities, SRH University Heidelberg received very good evaluations for a number of indicators. In the criterion of international orientation, our university achieved an A, the top grade, for the percentage of international academic staff. The mobility of students abroad and the percentage of international master degree programmes also scored above average. Regionally, the private university is very well connected. The U-Multirank global comparison of universities covers the aspects of teaching and learning, research, international orientation, knowledge transfer and regional engagement, along with more than 30 individual indicators. A variety of data sources and statistics are used for the ranking. U-Multirank Audit A family-friendly university For many years, SRH University Heidelberg has been committed to creating a working and studying environment that helps staff and students maintain a healthy family life. In 2020, after our fourth successful ?audit berufundfamilie? (audit workandfamily) and ?audit familiengerechte hochschule? (audit family-friendly university), our institution earned a long-term ?audit familiengerechte hochschule? certificate. In addition to opportunities to work from home and flexible models for working hours, we have set up a parent-child area when employees and students can work or study while their children play. After parental leave or caring for a loved one, SRH University Heidelberg also helps staff return to work smoothly.

Entrepreneurship Entrepreneurship Excellent Start-up Support The Stifterverband's Gründungsradar 2020, which is funded by the Federal Ministry for Economic Affairs and Energy, places SRH University Heidelberg in the top group in the ranking of universities with fewer than 5,000 students. With a score of 51.9 out of 60, the Start-Up Institute at SRH University Heidelberg is ranked fifth among small universities in the ranking around the topic of start-up support. The university has been actively promoting start-ups since 2010. From the beginning of their studies, the Gründer-Institut supports students who are interested in self-employment or starting a business with practical teaching and advice. Modules on entrepreneurship are offered in almost every degree programme. In addition, the supports students in finding and validating ideas and makes its networks and room capacities available.

Genius Loci Award The Genius Loci Award for Excellence in Teaching In 2018, Stifterverband and the Volkswagen Foundation honoured our teaching and learning model, the CORE Principle, with the Genius Loci Award, the only prize in Germany awarded for outstanding teaching to institutions. SRH University Heidelberg created the CORE Principle (Competence-Oriented Research and Education) in 2012 as a unique teaching and learning model based on cutting-edge scientific findings from pedagogy and brain research: students delve into a single topic for five weeks – harnessing their own responsibility and working in small groups, and coached by our lecturers. At the end of the five weeks, students are tested to see if they can put the skills they have learned into practice – for example, in the form of mock annual general meetings, presentations or exhibition concepts. Audit A family-friendly university For many years, SRH University Heidelberg has been committed to creating a working and studying environment that helps staff and students maintain a healthy family life. In 2020, after our fourth successful "audit berufundfamilie" (audit workandfamily) and "audit familiengerechte hochschule" (audit family-friendly university), our institution earned a long-term "audit familiengerechte hochschule" certificate. In addition to opportunities to work from home and flexible models for working hours, we have set up a parent-child area when employees and students can work or study while their children play. After parental leave or caring for a loved one, SRH University Heidelberg also helps staff return to work smoothly.

Our study concept! Everything revolves around you We support you personally and continuously in achieving your goals. Based on our proven CORE principle, we have aligned all learning objectives, forms of examination, teaching and learning methods for you, in order to make learning as fun and successful as possible. Here you learn step by step We believe that sustainable learning is only possible if there is enough space for experimentation, games and critical thinking. That is why we have completely restructured the classical course of studies. You will work on practical tasks in small teams over 5-week blocks Instead of losing the overview in between lots of subjects, you completely draw your attention to a maximum of two subjects that are taught in parallel during a block of 5 weeks. You will then take an exam on the subject matter of the previous weeks Due to the time frame of our study model, you will no longer have to deal with crowded exam weeks. With a large pool of possible examination forms (from the typical exam up to a learning diary) you can demonstrate your skills in the way that is the most well-suited to the competences that are relevant for the subject in question. You will receive continuous performance feedback throughout your entire studies We guide you on a professional, personal and organisational level throughout your studies. From the first day onwards, you will have qualified mentors by your side. In addition, you will get individual coaching and competent advice from our Career Service. You will receive all-round support from your lecturer At SRH we do not practice pure frontal teaching only. Instead, our teachers will become individual coaches for you.

You will not only acquire expertise and methods but also improve your personal and social competences on a regular basis. Our principles We give you room to improve yourself Learning at eye level Pure frontal teaching does not exist in our classrooms. Instead, our instructors become individual learning coaches for you. Together, you will not only acquire specialist knowledge, but also hone your soft and hard skills. In order to achieve this, we rely on direct communication. No fear of making mistakes Trying out is allowed here! Even welcomed, since we rely on experience-based learning. It's not always about right or wrong, above all it's about trying things out and getting to know each other. At SRH, you don't study for the professor or the examinations office, but primarily for your own projects and your whole (professional) life. Learning for the real world You don't have to do countless internships after you graduate. Practical teamwork on real projects with partners from the real world will prepare you optimally for the professional world. At the same time, you will develop social skills such as the ability to accept criticism, to think outside the box and to solve problems creatively. These are exactly the skills that employers expect from their employees today. In addition, you will not only have a certificate in your hand, but also project references from real world partners, that you can provide alongside your job applications. AND: you'll know where your personal strengths lie. Constructive Alignment Constructive Alignment Customised tests We work according to the SRH Constructive Alignment. We ask ourselves: Which competences do our alumni need on the job? In which form of examination can they best demonstrate these abilities? How must lessons be designed so that students are well prepared for this examination? Therefore, we do not only use classical examination forms such as written exams or presentations. In total, there are about thirty different examination forms to choose from. For example: portfolio presentation project work case work scientific poster report ...and many others. Knowledge and application Start your professional life with the skills you need We focus on ensuring that our courses are competence-oriented. This means you will be able to apply your practical knowledge as soon as you start your first job, and that will make you more attractive in the labour market. Professional skills You can apply and reproduce the knowledge you have acquired, recognise relationships, understand important theories, and handle technical language. Social skills You can work as part of a team, focusing on goals and results. Methodological skills You can apply efficient strategies and techniques, adapted to each situation. Personal skills You manage yourself and develop your professional actions responsibly and reflectively. Classroom Campus A learning space that is ideal for you It's not only important how you learn, but also where. That's why we have tailored our campus to fit your needs. Our classrooms are furnished by leading international manufacturers in the field of education to maximise ergonomic comfort and educational success. This is one way we ensure that students and lecturers can work in optimal conditions. We also promote collaborative learning, which is why you will find spaces on our campus to work in groups and share information, as well as just to rest, laugh or have a coffee. Interested? At SRH, you don't study for the professor or the examinations office, but primarily for your own projects and your whole (professional) life. Learning for the real world You don't have to do countless internships after you graduate. Practical teamwork on real projects with partners from the real world will prepare you optimally for the professional world. At the same time, you will develop social skills such as the ability to accept criticism, to think outside the box and to solve problems creatively. These are exactly the skills that employers expect from their employees today. In addition, you will not only have a certificate in your hand, but also project references from real world partners, that you can provide alongside your job applications. AND: you'll know where your personal strengths lie. Learning for the real world You don't have to do countless internships after you graduate. We ask ourselves: Which competences do our alumni need on the job? In which form of examination can they best demonstrate these abilities? How must lessons be designed so that students are well prepared for this examination? Therefore, we do not only use classical examination forms such as written exams or presentations. In total, there are about thirty different examination forms to choose from. For example: portfolio presentation project work case work scientific poster report ...and many others. Knowledge and application Start your professional life with the skills you need We focus on ensuring that our courses are competence-oriented. This means you will be able to apply your practical knowledge as soon as you start your first job, and that will make you more attractive in the labour market.

Professional skills You can apply and reproduce the knowledge you have acquired, recognise relationships, understand important theories, and handle technical language.

Social skills You can work as part of a team, focusing on goals and results.

Methodological skills You can apply efficient strategies and techniques, adapted to each situation.

Personal skills You manage yourself and develop your professional actions responsibly and reflectively.
